MoMA Drop-in Drawing FAQ

How does it work?
Drop-in Drawing invites visitors to explore artworks through drawing. Materials and seating are provided on a first come, first serve basis. Participation is open to all, with no experience, ability, or reservations required. All ages are welcome.

Drop-in Drawing occurs every Friday from 5:30-8:00pm during UNIQLO Friday Nights where MoMA is open late, and admission is free for all New York State residents. Non-NY State residents may stay late with a paid ticket. You can reserve tickets ahead of time for the evening here. The program itself is free to join and included in admission to UNIQLO Friday Nights.

Drop-in Drawing is first come, first serve. There are no spots held or reservations.

What materials are provided? Can I bring my own materials?
We provide a drawing board with a couple sheets of drawing paper, self-guided drawing prompts always available in English and Spanish, graphite pencils of various weights, and color pencils.

You are welcome to bring your own sketchbook and drawing materials granted they follow Museum guidelines. Please note that marking materials such as paint, adhesives, epoxies, or glues, crayons, and markers are not allowed. Only pencils are allowed for drawing and sketching in the galleries. Refer to the full list of Prohibited Items here.

Where in the Museum is Drop-in Drawing held?
Drop-in Drawing locations rotate every month throughout the Museum's galleries. Check the Program Wall when you enter the Lobby to find the location of Drop-in Drawing on the night of your visit. Or, check the Drop-in Drawing program page for relevant information updated at least two months in advance.
