THE JAZZTET TO GIVE CONCERT AT MUSEUM OF MODERN ART

The Jazztet, led by Benny Golson and Art Farmer, will give the Jazz in the Garden concert at the Museum of Modern Art on Thursday, September 21, at 8:30 p.m. The modern jazz group replaces The Buster Bailey Sextet, originally scheduled. Golson, on tenor sax, and Farmer, on trumpet, will be joined by Grachan Moncur, trombone, Hal Maybern, piano, Tommy Williams, bass, and Roy McCurdy, drums.

Admission to the promenade concert, one of a Thursday evening series presented by the Museum and Metronome magazine, is 50 cents in addition to the regular $1.00 admission to galleries, open Thursdays until 10 p.m. Supper and light refreshments are served in the penthouse restaurant.

In case of rain the concert will be canceled; tickets will be honored at the jazz concert following, September 28, performers to be announced.

The Jazztet, formed in 1959, is known for polished ensemble work and melodic treatment. Differing from many modern jazz groups, its cohesive sound results from tight arrangements.

Benny Golson is the composer of "I Remember Clifford" and "Whisper Not." He has played with Johnny Hodges, Dizzy Gillespie and Lionel Hampton. Art Farmer, a disciple of Miles Davis, is remembered for his work with Gerry Mulligan, with whom he made movie appearances in "I Want to Live" and "The Subterraneans."

The Jazztet has recorded extensively.
