FOLKSINGER CARL ROSENSTOCK TO PERFORM AT SUMMERGARDEN

Carl Rosenstock, a young folksinger, will make his SUMMERGARDEN debut Friday and Saturday nights, June 8 and 9, at 8 pm, in The Museum of Modern Art Sculpture Garden. Seated among the sculptures and trees, Mr. Rosenstock will sing songs of his own composition, while he and an accompanist play guitars. The public is invited to gather around to enjoy the live music or to simply wander through the multi-leveled Garden.

Born and raised in Albany, Carl Rosenstock received training as a pianist as a child. After attending Union College where he received his B.A. in Medieval Japanese History, he came to New York, where for the past several years he has played guitar and sung in many Village clubs. Due to his liberal arts background, he is not restricted simply to writing music; he has also had poetry published. Among the songs he is planning to perform this weekend are his "New Wine," "From the Moon to New Orleans" and "Jack of Diamonds."

SUMMERGARDEN is Mobil Foundation's gift to New York. It enables The Museum of Modern Art to open its award-winning Abby Aldrich Rockefeller Sculpture Garden without charge on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings from 6 to 11 pm, from June 1 through September 30. Diverse entertainments are usually scheduled for Friday and Saturday nights beginning at 8 pm. Chosen by Ed Bland, Program Director, this year they range from Egyptian belly dancers to avant-garde ballet companies, with everything imaginable in between.

Next week's performer will be Don Burnham, also a folksinger.
