ARCHITECTURAL EXHIBITION CLOSING MARCH 23

The exhibition of modern architecture, which closes at the Museum of Modern Art on Wednesday, March 23, will be the last show to be held in the Museum's present galleries at 730 Fifth Avenue. The Museum's next show this season, an exhibition of murals by American artists, will be held in the Museum's new home at 11 West Fifty-third Street, a five-story residence now being remodeled.

The definite date for the opening of the mural show and the new home will be announced soon. It is expected that the exhibition will open shortly after the middle of April and continue through ~~July~~ May.

The current architectural exhibition, which opened February 10 and which has aroused interest throughout the country judging by the ^{and the} number of inquiries received at the Museum, will start on a three year tour of the United States the last of this month. It will be shown first at the Pennsylvania Art Museum in Philadelphia from March 30 to April 28. On the itinerary at present are the following: Wadsworth Atheneum, Hartford; Gallery of Bullock's Wilshire, Los Angeles; Buffalo Fine Arts Academy; Cleveland Museum of Art; Milwaukee Art Institute; Cincinnati Art Museum; Rochester Memorial Art Gallery; Art Museum, Worcester, Mass.; Toledo Museum of Art; Fogg Museum, Cambridge.
