PHILIP L. GOODWIN GIVES DINNER IN HONOR OF MME. MARTINS
AFTER PRIVATE OPENING OF BRAZILIAN ARCHITECTURE AT MUSEUM OF MODERN ART

Mr. Philip L. Goodwin, Trustee of the Museum of Modern Art, gave a dinner in honor of Mme. Carlos Martins, wife of the Ambassador from Brazil, last night (Tuesday) immediately after the private opening of Brazil Builds, an exhibition of nearly 300 centuries of Brazilian architecture, which opens to the public today (Wednesday, January 13) at the Museum.

The guest of honor is a noted sculptress. An eight-foot sculpture of hers in jacaranda wood is owned by the Museum.

Among the guests at the dinner were:

Miss Nora Martins

The Hon. Oscar Correia, Brazilian Consul General, and Mme. Correia and Miss Sonia Correia

Mr. Victor de Carvalho, of the Brazilian Consulate

Mr. René d'Harnoncourt

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Barr, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Sage Goodwin

Mr. A. Conger Goodyear

Mr. Philip Johnson

Mrs. G. E. Kidder Smith

Mr. and Mrs. James Thrall Soby

Mr. Robert C. Smith

Mr. Monroe Wheeler

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lester Wiener

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CORRECTION

Due to a confusion of dates the exhibition Brazil Builds, which opened at the Museum of Modern Art January 13, was announced to close March 7. This is erroneous. THE CLOSING DATE OF BRAZIL BUILDS IS FEBRUARY 28.

As so much interest has been shown in the exhibition, the Museum would like to extend it a week to March 7, the closing date originally announced. This is impossible, however, as the exhibition is scheduled to go immediately to Boston where it will open under the auspices of the Pan American Society on March 14 at the Museum of Fine Arts.
