- CONTENT Roy DeCarava (b. 1919) is a leading figure in the lively history of American photography since World War II. Through some 200 black-and-white prints, this major retrospective surveys the artist's achievement, from gentle, intimate pictures of everyday life in Harlem to lyric experiments in poetic metaphor. DeCarava's portraits and jazz photographs -- of Billie Holiday, Milt Jackson, John Coltrane, and many others -- are among the best ever made. Also featured are the series on the moods of darkness and night, the streets and subways of the city, and the civil rights protests of the early 1960s.
- A lifelong New Yorker, DeCarava in 1952 received the first Guggenheim Fellowship awarded to an African-American photographer. In 1955 his Harlem pictures were published in The Sweet Flypaper of Life, with text by Langston Hughes. Since 1975 he has taught photography at Hunter College, where he is Distinguished Professor of Art of the City University of New York.
- JAZZ AT MoMA During the run of the exhibition, evenings of "Jazz at MoMA" will feature renowned musicians invited by Roy DeCarava and jazz bassist Ron Carter (Fridays, 5:30 - 7:45 p.m.). This series is supported by a generous grant from The Robert and Joyce Menschel Foundation.
