Buffalo

January 18, 1945.

Dear Andrew:

I hope it will be possible for you to lend us your fine Mondrian, London, for the memorial exhibition to be held in the Museum from March 21 to May 13. I hope you will be able to spare it.

I am enclosing a registration form on which we would appreciate your indicating the desired insurance valuation, catalog listing and the like.

If you are willing to lend, will you kindly arrange to have the picture shipped on or before March 1. The painting should be sent collect via Railway Express, but this Museum should be billed separately for the packing charges.

Although the Museum's insurance policy covers loans in transit as well as loans on exhibition, a valuation of $500 declared on the box will insure special handling.

With all best to Jane and you. Don't forget to give us a ring on one of your flying visits.

Dear Andrew:

Apparently the dealer was unaware of Mondrian's title for the picture. Mondrian claimed it was begun during the blitz in London - hence the allusion. I doubt if the dealer who sold it to you knew Mondrian. But Dudensing who sold it to Mrs. Florsheim is familiar with this explanation.

Many thanks for lending it to the exhibition. I look forward to seeing you. And all best to Jane.

Dear James:

We shall, of course, be delighted to lend our Mondrian, Composition, for your memorial exhibition. I note you call it London. I wonder if this is an error or do you have more up-to-date information than the dealer gave me?

We will arrange to ship the picture on or before March 1. As to insurance, it is our usual practice to cover all loans on our own policy and bill the borrower on a pro rata basis for the premium. I hope this is satisfactory, as it has been in the past.

My best to Laura. With best wishes for the success of the show and looking forward to seeing you before long on one of my trips,

Dear James:

Thank you for the letter on our Mondrian. The title "London" is quite new to me. I wonder how much significance it has as a title, particularly with reference to such an abstract composition as Mondrian's. I took occasion to talk to Valentine Dudensing who originally sold the painting to Mrs. Florsheim and told him of the new title you had given me. I should suggest your talking to him because he feels sure that Mondrian never gave him such a title. But perhaps you have more up to date information than Dudensing. I merely mention this for what it is worth since I don't pretend to know the story.

I do hope we can get the Maillol Torso and thank you ever so much for presenting the matter to your Trustees and promising to wire me.

Sorry to have missed you last Saturday. All the best,

Arensburg

April 5, 1945.

Dear Mr. Wrigley:

Mr. Sweeney is planning to reproduce Mr. Arensburg's 19__ Mondrian in his forthcoming monograph on the artist in addition to the 1919 diamond-shape composition which he has borrowed for the exhibition. It is customary in our captions for illustrations to give complete catalog information, and I should greatly appreciate it if you would furnish us with the dimensions of the canvas itself and the colors which appear in the picture other than black and white.

Thanking you in advance for your cooperation.

Dear Mr. Sweeney:

I am sending you under separate cover a photograph of a painting by Mondrian done in 1919. Our other example of his work is later, 1936, and is of a general form which he frequently repeated. If you wish a photograph of it, I will be glad to send it to you.

I have long looked forward to the pleasure of making your aquaintance. Unfortunately, as for meeting you in the east, I find it very difficult to get away from my work out here. However, I will certainly not fail to try to see you the very next time I can manage to get away. I look forward with interest to the publication of the monograph on Mondrian.

Re: Mondrian Paintings at Beck Engraving Co.

From: Andrew Allen

Could you please go to Beck Engraving Company, 305 East 45th Street, on Monday, March 19th at 2 o'clock to wrap the ~~Mondrian~~ Victory Boogie-Woogie (Spreckles) 45.68 in wax paper as it was wrapped when we sent it down for reproduction. Mann is to collect the painting after 2:00 P.M. and bring it to the Museum. The other two paintings (Mondrian 45.45 and 2.37) which were sent down with crates in a box are also to be collected at the same time. Beck is to have them in the box before Mann comes, but would you please check on this to be sure that it has been done.

Many thanks, and have a happy celebration. Happy St. Patrick's Day to you, too.

Dear Pvt. Budnick:

I was very happy to get your note and to learn of your continued interest in the work of the late Piet Mondrian. You asked in the last paragraph of your note if I could inform you of other people who are sincerely engaged in the same direction as Mondrian. The man who I can honestly state has the best knowledge of what Mondrian was attempting to do was his best friend at the time of his death, the Swiss painter Fritz Glarner. Glarner in my opinion knows more of his aims and was closer to him in spirit than anyone else. If you do not know Glarner I am sure you will find him sympathetic and collaborative, intelligent and generous in every way.

With all good wishes and much luck,

Sincerely,

DEAR SIRS;
THE MONDRIAN EXHIBITION HAS FORCED MY INTEREST IN KNOWING IT'S EFFECT ON THE PUBLIC. IT IS COMMON THESE DAYS FOR A SOLDIER TO START PLANNING FOR HIS RETURN TO CIVILIAN LIFE. THE INFORMATION YOU CAN GIVE ME MAY BE VERY USEFULL TO MY PLANS. THREE YEARS AGO WHILE I COULD SPEAK TO MONDRIAN, MY RELATION IN THE WORLD OF ART WAS MERELY THAT OF A STUDENT. THOUGH I STILL CONSIDER MYSELF A STUDENT, THE POSITION OF NEO-PLASTIC ART HAS CHANGED ENOUGH FOR ME TO FIND A MORE INTENSE RELATION. IF YOU ARE FAMILIAR WITH WHAT MONDRIAN HAS SAID, YOU WILL RECALL THAT HE CLAIMED THAT NEO-PLASTIC HAS INFLUENCED MANY FIELDS OF ACTIVITY WHICH ARE REAL EXPRESSIONS OF THE 20th CENTURY, BUT IT HAS NOT HELD MUCH INTEREST FOR THE ARTISTS. NAMELY BECAUSE THEY SEE THIS TYPE OF WORK AS AN END IN ART AND NOT AS THE ART WITHOUT INTERFERENCE; THE SELECTION OF OF THOSE ELEMENTS IN FORMS AND COLOR WHICH DEAL ONLY WITH VISUAL FORCES AND THE ARTIST'S WORK OF ORGANIZING THOSE FORCES. I, NOW A PARATROOPER, WAS ONCE ACTIVELY ENGAGED WITH WORKING WITH HARRY HOLTZMAN. COULD YOU INFORM ME OF OTHER PEOPLES WHO ARE SINCERELY ENGAGED IN THE SAME DIRECTION AND WHOM I CAN HOPE TO COOPERATE WITH WHEN THE PEACE HAS COME FOR THE SOLDIERS.

Dear Mr. Chrysler:

As you possibly have heard, the Museum of Modern Art is preparing an inclusive Memorial Exhibition of the work of the late Piet Mondrian to open with a preview March 20th.

I have always admired your upright canvas of 1936. It has a monumental simplicity rare in Mondrian's later work and is an important document for the true picture of his achievement.

I hope you may consider lending it to us for this important memorial to a great artist.

I should be delighted to lend my double-dated Mondrian for your show. I notice there is a discrepancy in dates for it is 1935-42 on the canvas face and 1937-42 on the back. Also the title Rhythme de Lignes Droites has been effaced. However I think that's the best title to use unless you want to think up one better. I'll see that it gets off to you by March 1st.

I must confess I look forward to this show as to none other. It ought to be a knock-out.

Dear Henry:

Thank you very much for your loan of the Rhythme de Lignes Droites. Mondrian has many conflicting dates in his work, principally because he never felt the picture was finished. Apparently the only way one could stop him from changing it was to take it out of his hands. And in repainting he often painted out the original date and painted in a new one.

All best to you,

James Johnson Sweeney

From Crommelin

Dear Harry:

Will you please have James go to the Netherland Consulate, 10 Rockefeller Plaza, Room 706, about 10 o'clock tomorrow morning (Tuesday) to collect a Mondrian painting "River Scene" which we are borrowing from Mr. H. Crommelin for the Mondrian exhibition. I have talked with Mr. Crommelin on the phone and he will be expecting someone from the Museum. When the painting has come in, will you please let me know as I wish to check and record it before it goes to Mrs. Keck. I am attaching a pick-up order for James to take with him.

Dear Mr. Crommelin:

Last spring you very kindly loaned us your early Mondrian River Scene for photographing and told us that we might borrow it for the Mondrian Memorial Exhibition scheduled to open March 20th.

If agreeable to you, we would like to pick it up this week. At the time you loaned it to us earlier, I believe we discussed the possibility of cleaning it. If you approve of this, we will take the matter up with Mrs. Keck, our expert.

We are enclosing the regular Museum Registrar's form. We would appreciate your indicating thereon the valuation at which you would like us to place the insurance, also the catalog listing you wish.

My dear Miss Dreier?

You are very good to write me the notes on your Mondrians. I am interested also to hear that the Yale Societe Anoryme diamond shaped Mondrian was shown at the opening of the New School for Social Research.

I would like very much to have the dimensions and date of your little Mondrian in the country and if possible indications of the color and composition. A rough sketch would be very helpful to me. In any case I hope you will lend your historic 1926 diamond shape to the exhibition.

As you probably know it is scheduled to open March 21 and run through May 13. I am enclosing a green registrars form on which I would appreciate your indicating your wishes in regard to insurance, catalogue listing and the like. Would you also indicate whether the picture is in New York or in the country so that our registrar can make arrangements for collecting the picture at the end of February?

Laura and I were both very touched by your thought of us with the book on Burliuk wich arrived in this morning's post. I look forward to reading itwwith great interest. While I have known his work quite a long while, personally he has remained a legendary character to me. I am anxious to learn his story from your pen.

Also I am interested to hear that Molzahn is a neighbor. I will certainly get in touch with him. And I hope Laura and I may have the pleasure of seeing you soon.

With all good wishes,

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. van Weeren-Griek,

I am very grateful to you for your letter of February 16 with the news of the Slijper photographs. I am anxious to get them as early as possible, as they will probably be some very useful ones for the book on Mondrian and I am anxious to get it to press.

Your prodding and Mr. Nordijk's good word have evidently brought results.

You will be pleased to hear, as I was, that Mr. Regnault has agreed to lend six pictures for the exhibition, with the single proviso that they go no farther than New York. I regret this because we, as you know, are arranging the show with the Art Institute of Chicago, and the contents of the exhibition should be the same in each city. This was our agreement with the Art Institute when plans were originally made.

But I am very happy that Mr. Regnault has at any rate agreed to let the pictures be seen in New York.

Let me thank you again for your cooperation.

Dear Mr. Hamilton:

The Museum of Modern Art is planning a memorial exhibition of the work of the late Piet Mondrian. I know the three excellent paintings by Mondrian you have in the Societe Anonyme Collection but am not certain of the date of the diamond-shape canvas. I telephoned Miss Katherine Dreier but she suggested I communicate directly with you. Could you write me the date and dimensions for a list I am preparing of Mondrians in public collections in the United States. Also, could you have a photograph of it made at the Museum's expense.

I will greatly appreciate your assistance in this.

Dear Frances:

I am enclosing page proof of the Mondrian piece. I wonder if I might make a suggestion about the title "Magic in the Roughest Sense." I realize that the words "roughest sense" are from his letter, but in the letter it read "Magic and the purest and roughest sense," which in my opinion has quite a different implication. Perhaps you might work something in this direction: "From the Farmyard to Stars," since the Farmyard owned by Ernest Hemingway is probably Miro's most famous picture.

Dear Mr. Janis:

Your brother, Mr. Sidney Janis, told me that you were the fortunate possessor of the fine Mondrian originally purchased from the painter by Mr. Luks. I was very happy to hear this because I had seen the painting years ago in Paris and was hoping to be able to locate it for the Memorial Exhibition which the Museum is planning. I would like to borrow it, if you can spare it.

I spoke with Mr. Sidney Janis. He told me that you might be out of town and suggested that I address this note as I have. I am enclosing a Museum Registrar's form in the hope that you will see your way to favor us with this loan. We will be very grateful to you.

Thanking you for your courtesy,

Very sincerely yours,

I hope you may be able to part with your Mondrian for the memorial exhibition here at the Museum from March 21 to May 13. I have always liked it and would hate to be unable to include it in the show.

I am enclosing a registration form on which we would appreciate your indicating the desired insurance valuation, catalog listing and the like. If you are willing to lend, will you please arrange to have the picture shipped on or before March 1. The painting should be sent collect via Railway Express, but this Museum should be billed separately for the packing charges.

Dear Mrs. Lloyd:

We are sorry to delay the return of the Mondrian painting which you generously lent to our exhibition. We asked Fidelity-20th-Century Transportation Company to collect this picture at the close of our exhibition and return it to you. The Fidelity Company has not yet had a trip scheduled between New York and Philadelphia but wrote us that they hoped to have one soon.

Will you please let me know if you would prefer to have us pack and ship the painting by Railway Express. If not, we will hold it until the Fidelity Company has a trip.

If we should send it by Railway Express, we could consign the box to the Fidelity Company and ask them to unpack and deliver the painting to you.

Dear Mr. Sweeney:

Thank you very much for your note.

Will you agree that Mondrian must have plotted the compositions with the aid of mathematics? It is this question that has interested me in your "Yellow, Black, and White Composition", which is particularly relevant because it departs so little from one of the diagrams in Hambidge. I would like to work on a tracing of it, since you seemed to feel that the analysis from the reproduction was so inconclusive.

I am looking forward to your Mondrian show with great interest and I should like very much to see the paintings you have in the Museum now. I am afraid I do not have very much time at present to explore compositions that I did not work out to some degree last summer.

Line CD marks off golden section DB in the square.

Line E marks off square DE in goldensection DB. Height of line E determined by projection of the perpendicular to the diagonal into the excess area at the right.

Line F marks point of crossing of perpendicular to diagonal. This is thenucleus of a golden section rectangle as it determines the construction of an infinite number of golden sections within the original one.

Line G occurs at the crossing of the diagonals and therefore divides the golden section EC in half horizontally. The projection of this line into the excess area at the right creates two equal white spaces there, one above and one below it.

Line H, like Line F, markes the crossing of a perpendicular to the diagonal - a subordinate one this time.

Line IJ Creates golden section KC

Dear Mr. Barr:

I am sorry to be so long about all this, but I find I have rather less time these days than might be hoped for.

Here, at any rate, is an analysis of the Museum's Mondrian. I made such an experimental mess of Bill Lieberman's tracing that I had to retrace it, so it is now twice removed and I hope too many inaccuracies have not crept in. There are certain small deviations from strict mathematical truth (like the 40 x 39 7/8 square), but one is not after all constructing a bomber but simply using a system that permits a rather high degree of control over the division of an area. I therefore reconcile myself to the fact that the only place large enough to work on was a bumpy kitchen floor and with a ruler that is probably not irreproachably straight - Mondrian's was probably no straighter - only crooked in a different direction.

I hope the enclosed explanation makes sense. What the analysis does seem to me to do, in any case, is to clarify the relations within the painting and provide a more objective view of the mechanics of what one senses as highly sophisticated composition.

However, arrangements have already been completed with the Parke-Bernet Galleries in New York City for the sale of certain works from my collection near the end of March and this is one of the important canvases to be included in the sale, so that in this instance I shall not be able to oblige you.

As you possibly have heard, the Museum of Modern Art is preparing an inclusive Memorial Exhibition of the work of the late Piet Mondrian to open with a preview March 20th.

I have always admired your upright canvas of 1936. It has a monumental simplicity rare in Mondrian's later work and is an important document for the true picture of his achievement.

Dear Mr. Sweeney-

It was indeed a pleasure to meet you on Thursday last.

I hope I may, in some small measure, contribute to your research on Mondrian and his art. There is, however, one major regret which I harbor, namely, that my mother is no longer alive to give you a personal account of her association with this painter during the early years of his career. with a few of her old friends in Holland I am sure they might be able to give aid. The other alternative I have in mind is to delve through a large trunk containing articles and manuscripts of my mother's, which may reveal some illuminating data on the subject. I happen to know that there is a rather comprehensive collection, in Dutch, of her journalistic output as art critic, and it is not improbable that amongst those clippings may be a review of Mondrian's work, his life and times - particularly with regard to that phase of interest in theosophy you mentioned.

The trunk is stored in New Jersey, and as soon as I have a chance to venture there, I shall be glad to make a thorough search.

Meanwhile, if I can be helpful to you in translating any of the Dutch literature you have on Mondrian, please don't hesitate to ask me.

I am enclosing a somewhat dilapidated brochure (the only one I seem to have left) by way of further introduction.

Dear Mrs. McKnight:

I enjoyed our conversation more than I can say and look forward very much to your further assistance with Mondrian data. I will be very grateful if you can find an opportunity to dig into the trunk containing your mother's articles and manuscripts. I am sure that any impressions she might have had of Mondrian's work in those years would throw a light on it we could not hope to find elsewhere.

I also appreciate your offer to translate any Dutch pieces I may have and will certainly take advantage of your generosity.

I have made a copy of the brochure you so kindly enclosed and am returning it to you herewith.

The drawing is being photographed and your mother's snapshot being copied with your permission, for publication in our Mondrian bulletin and in the monograph.

I look forward to your visit sometime this week.

Miss Mondriaan

June 3, 1946

Dear Miss Mondriaan,

For about eight months before your late brother's death, he and I were working together on a monograph which was to consider his painting against the background of Dutch art.

I had known your brother since 1931 when I met him in Paris. I had always admired his work and had acquired two of his paintings before he came to this country. Your brother very generously gave me an afternoon every two or three weeks. At these meetings, begun over luncheon, we would quietly discuss his ideas and informally his background. I would ask questions and make notes. As I did not realize then that time was pressing, I did not hurry him. I did not hurry him. I did not wish to fatigue him or bore him by intensive interrogation. As a result many of the points which I would like to have covered more thoroughly were either slighted or completely overlooked. His death came suddenly and was a grievous shock to all of us.

However, after his death the plan of the book was not abandoned, and the Museum of Modern Art proposed to publish it with the sympathetic collaboration they give their publications in the modern art field so notable for thoroughness.

Recently Mr. S. B. Slijper of Blaricum has been very helpful. Through his kindness I have received excellent photographs of paintings of which the only record I had were the faded or yellowed prints or clippings from magazines your late brother gave me while I was working with him. Mr. Slijper also wrote me some recollections you apparently conveyed to him of your brother's early years. I wonder if I could ask you to be kind enough to help me in my documentation by expanding this information?

It would be invaluable to me to have from you a chronology of Mondriaan's early years - where he lived, went to school, spent vacations, and the like. I was surprised to learn from Mr. Slijper that he had been in England in his youth, a point that had never come out in my conversations with him. Could you tell me when your brother went to England, and how long he remained there? Mr. Slijper also mentioned an old painter who lived at Doetichen. Could you let me know who this painter was by name, and some facts about his background and the character of his work, or at any rate, some source from which I might get this data?

FOR STUDY PURPOSES ONLY. NOT FOR REPRODUCTION.

The Museum of Modern Art Archives, NY	Collection:	Series.Folder:
	MoMA Exhs.	282.3

All such information will be extremely helpful to me in filling out the gaps in my documentation which are in part the result of your brother's sudden death. If I may say so, as one of his close friends during his American years, he was one of the best liked and respected artists in New York, and from his own assurance his New York stay marked some of the happiest days of the last years of his life.

I hope this request is not an imposition. Please believe my deep gratitude in anticipation of any information you can supply.

Very sincerely yours,

Miss Carel Mondriaan

Dear Mrs. Ootmar,

It is a long while since your two paintings by Mondrian which you so generously let us hold after the exhibition were returned to you. I am happy to hear, which you have already learned directly, that a large Memorial exhibition is to be held this November in the Gemeente Musea in Amsterdam. I am writing you this as I feel it might interest you as probably the only owner of paintings by Mondrian in Canada.

Mondr. Oud

August 7, 1946

Dear Mr. Oud,

I have received your letter enclosing the essay in Dutch on Piet Mondrian.

It is very strange that Mr. Slijper should have referred to you in connection with Mondrian's interest in Theosophy. Mondrian had indicated to me briefly that at a certain period he had been interested in this field, but seemed rather reluctant to talk about it. I gathered that he felt it was something he had completely divorced himself from and did not any longer consider seriously. Nevertheless, I am sure that at one period it made a deep impress on his work. Certain reproductions which I have seen indicate this, and I had hoped on reading Mr. Slijper's letter that you might be able to throw some light on this phase. Should you encounter any of his former friends who knew him at this time, I would appreciate your mentioning my interest, and I would welcome any reminiscenses that you may find an opportunity to write me.

Your article which I have had translated from the Dutch I found extremely interesting, and I am grateful to you for passing it along. Also the article by Mondrian in French is a valuable addition to the batch of his writings, mostly in manuscript, I have succeeded in bringing together.

It was a great pleasure to hear from you. I had always known Mondrian's esteem for you personally. And I entirely join you in your regard for him as an artist and friend. I sincerely hope the book I am preparing on his work may not be entirely unworthy of him.

Mondrian Oud

June 4, 1946

Dear Mr. Oud,

For the last eight months before the late Piet Mondrian's death, I was preparing a monograph on his work to discuss it in its development and against the background of Dutch painting. He often spoke to me of you, and he spoke briefly also of his interest in theosophy, which engaged him over several years and which left its mark on his work over several years. However in our conversations, not realizing that time was pressing, I did not follow his many threads of our conversations as thoroughly as I today wish I had. His interest in theosophy and its relationship to his work was one of these. Recently however Mr. S. B. Slijper of Blaricum wrote me very generously some notes on the early years of Mondrian, and in these notes quoted from letters Mondrian wrote you with particular reference to his theosophical interest.

I wonder if it might be possible to have photostats made of these letters, which would be invaluable to me in preparing the monograph on Piet Mondrian's development for the Museum of Modern Art. Any expenses involved I would naturally be glad to assume.

And beyond such photostats, or even translations of Mondrian's letters to you, I would be very grateful for any recollections you might be able to write to me. It would be an invaluable aid because of your association with him. Also any dates connected with his interest in theosophy, books which particularly attracted him, and the like.

Should it be simpler for you to write such information in Dutch, please do not hesitate to do so. I can readily have it translated here.

Sluyper

August 2, 1945

Mr. Sal. Sluyper
Dorpstraat, 14
Blaricum, Netherlands

Dear Mr. Sluyper:

This morning I had a telephone call from Gerard Hordyk, a friend of the late Piet Mondrian. He told me that he had word from a friend in London with whom you had communicated that you are anxious to have material concerning Piet Mondrian.

As you know, the Museum of Modern Art had a large memorial exhibition of Piet Mondrian's work this spring. A monograph on Mondrian, which I had been preparing with the painter before his death, was to have appeared at that time. But the cessation of hostilities abroad led me to hope that we might shortly be able to get further materials for this monograph to complete our documentation direct from Holland. Many of the photographs and reproductions which Mondrian gave me before his death for use in the monograph were faded and indistinct.

I had heard frequently in my conversations with Mondrian of you and your interest in his work through the early years. I was delighted to learn from Hordyk that it would be possible finally to communicate with you. I am hastening to write you at once in the possibility that you may find a way to help us to a fuller representation of Mondrian's early work for our monograph. The Museum will be glad to pay for prints of photographs which you can supply us. The Office of War Information has generously offered to expedite communications through its cultural pouch. And in writing us or sending photographs (and any other data which you can provide, and particularly of the period in which he was interested in theosophy), you may address us c/o Lt. Col. F. H. Insinger, c/o Mr. Victor Weybright, Office of War Information, London, England. I will gratefully appreciate it and it will be a valuable service to the memory of a great painter as Mondrian was.

The memorial exhibition was one of the most notable of this year's season in New York. Mondrian's friends in this country felt that he would have been pleased and proud of it. To supply an introduction to the exhibition while we awaited fuller materials for the monograph, the Museum published a bulletin on Mondrian, a copy of which I am enclosing. I am also enclosing an obituary clipping from the New York Times for your records.

Should there be any photographs of work in this country which you would like to use in connection with publications in Holland, please let me know. The Museum will be glad to cooperate with you. I would appreciate any photographs you can send as early as possible in order that we may start work on halftone reproductions of them.

Very sincerely yours,

Dear Mrs. Stewart:

The Museum of Modern Art is planning a Memorial Exhibition of the work of the late Piet Mondrian to open on March 21st of this year. It is to be a comprehensive representation of his work and it is hoped will include all the finest examples of his art in this country.

I have always admired the fine "Chrysanthemum" which you own. In my opinion it is the most interesting example fo that phase of his work that he brought with him to the United States. I hope you will see your way to lend it to us for the exhibition. We will deeply appreciate your cooperation in paying homage to this great twentieth-century painter.

I am asking Miss Charmion Wiegand to forward this letter to you. I have also taken the liberty of sending her Registrar's form, on which she may indicate the insurance valuation, shipping instructions and your wishes regarding the manner of catalog listing.

I hope you will favor us with this important contribution to a representative show of Mondrian's work. Please accept my thanks in anticipation.

Re: Collection of 2 Mondrian Paintings on Saturday

Dear Mrs. Clark: IMPORTANT

On Saturday, June 23, Miss Katherine S. Dreier will send her neighbor, Mr. George Cazassa, to the Museum to collect the two paintings by Mondrian which she lent to our exhibition. Mr. Cazassa will bring a note of identification from Miss Dreier.

These paintings are wrapped and are in the mezannine storeroom. Will you please ask one of your assistants or one of the guards to find Tom Ryan who will release the paintings and have a receipt signed for them. Tom knows where the paintings are stored.

Mr. Cazassa may wish to see the exhibitions while he is here in which case it would be better to hold the paintings in the storeroom until he is ready to leave.

Will you please see that everyone at the desk is informed about this. Miss Dreier made very careful arrangements with us for the return of these paintings and it is important ~~[illegible]~~ for us to see that they are carried out.

In case Harry Holtzman calls re delivering his Mondrians to anywhere in particular, here is the list of Mondrians which were not exhibited which we are holding for him. He said that he would call in a few days and let us know where he would like them sent.

He is also interested in buying the frames on the following:

45.104 Man's Head, charcoal
45.44 and 45.50 Tree drawings taken from frame of mounted drawings and framed and matted by the Museum

If he definitely still wants them in this condition (framed), I can find ou t the cost for him. and let him know.

he will be happy

Re: ~~Mondrian "Victory Boogie Woogie" belonging to Mrs. Tremaine (Spreckles)~~

Mr. Glarner came in this morning to look at the "Victory Boogie Woogie". His estimate is that the work will take at least two weeks and the cost will be about $125.00 (possibly $100.00) depending on the amount of time the painting requires.

There is no way that the painting can be permanently preserved - that is there is no surface covering which can be put over the painting to keep the pieces of paper from drying out and buckling at the edges. The scotch tape would undoubtedly have to be changed every five years or so. The oil painting color underneath eventually comes through the scotch tape put over it and changes the colors. There is bound to be some buckling and rolling of the edges since canvas and paper do not dry in the same way.

Mr. Glarner brought us his photograph of the painting and he will try to straighten out many of the places which were placed incorrectly, unevenly and sloppily when the thumb tacks were taken out and the pieces of paper glued down.

I have checked the cost of the frame which was made here at the Museum for the exhibition and Mrs. Tremaine can purchase it for $10.00 (we used the same piece of glass which was in the original frame so we don't have to charge for this).

Dear Dr. Landheer:

Thank you very much for your letter of April 26 regarding the purchase by the Netherlands Information Bureau of the copies of the Mondrian book which the Museum was to have published in 1945 and which, due to conditions beyond our control, has never appeared.

I understand very well that you cannot renew this commitment indefinitely and our failure to issue the book as scheduled completely releases you from any commitment in regard to it. Mr. Sweeney has not yet delivered the text for this volume but when he does we shall bring out the book as soon as possible.

When we are able definitely to announce the appearance of the book I shall get in touch with you again to determine what your requirements may be at that time.

With renewed thanks for the many kindnesses you have shown us, I am

I do not know what to suggest as a remuneration for Glarner. Perhaps you can tell what you think would not be unreasonable for the Museum. His work I feel should be regarded as expert work. I asked him to do it because I trusted him more than anyone I knew and I am sure he knew more about Mondrian's paint and solvents than anyone we could have found in the city.

Dear Mr. Wheeler:

Thank you for your letter of the 8th. We were sure that some error had occurred which in these times certainly is excusable.

It was my impression - and I have checked with Mr. and Mrs. Tremaine and their understanding likewise - was that we would underwrite the cost of the color plates for the Mondrian "Victory Boogie Woogie" and this was what we had in mind when we talked with Mr. Sweeney regarding the Stuart Davis painting.

We trust this will meet with your approval.

Dear Mrs. Brown:

It is a pleasure to acknowledge the receipt of the Netherland-America Foundation's check for $500. as half payment of the sum of $1000. which the Foundation is contributing toward the costs of the retrospective exhibition of the works of the Dutch modern artist, Piet Mondrian, which opens at the Museum on March 21st with a private view the preceding evening.

I want you to know how much we appreciate the active collaboration of the Foundation in sponsoring this important exhibition of the work of one of the most original artists of our time.

According to our arrangement we can accommodate one hundred and five guests for a buffet dinner preceding the opening. The Museum will invite thirty guests which will permit the Foundation to invite seventy-five. It is understood that each organization will pay for its own guests. Mr. Allen Porter of our staff is enquiring about the cost of the dinner and will communicate with you as soon as this has been determined.

Mrs. Wylie Brown
435 East 52nd Street
New York 22, New York

Dear Mrs. Brown:

In accordance with our telephone conversation I am outlining herewith the details in my letter of June 22nd to the Netherlands Foundation.

As I explained previously to Mr. van Riemsdijk, the Museum cannot without some financial help make as large an exhibition of Mondrian as we would like to, but if an additional $1000. toward the installation can be contributed we shall be able to devote the entire ground floor of the Museum to the exhibition and present it in the most impressive manner. If the Netherland-America Foundation finds that it can contribute this sum toward the exhibition we shall have to receive definite assurance of this so that we can make our plans at once. A retrospective exhibition of this kind requires a great deal of research and preparation.

If the Netherland-America Foundation finds that it can assist this project, it would be possible to announce the exhibition as presented by the Museum in cooperation with the Foundation and we will be glad to arrange for a dinner at the Museum prior to the opening, with the Foundation and the Museum each paying for its own guests. There is also a possibility of our being able to make the Auditorium available on the evening of the opening if a suitable program can be assembled.

I hope you will be good enough to let me know as soon as possible whether or not we may definitely count on your collaboration. We cannot fix a definite date for the exhibition until this is assured but the time that would suit us best would be March of next year.

With kind regards, I am

Very sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Watson:

It gives me great pleasure to accept honorary membership in the Netherland-America Foundation so generously proffered in your letter of March seventh. This action on your part brings back happy memories of the days when I helped to organize the original body.

And so in becoming affiliated with the work of the Netherland-America Foundation I have an interest far deeper than that of blood or heredity. I am sure all who admire courage and steadfastness and the spirit of self-sacrifice will welcome the determination to make the Foundation an organization of American friends of Holland.

There is much work that we can do. Let us set ourselves resolutely to do it.

MONTHLY LETTER

February, 1944

ATTENTIVE readers of this monthly missive, if such there are, must have noticed a change in the letter head. The October issue was the last to be published under the joint auspices of the Netherland-America Foundation and the Holland House Corporation. The latter's name no longer appeared on the November letter, and another innovation introduced that month was the mention, among the Foundation's officers, of Mrs. McKee Stone as National Director. There is a close connection between these two changes. The Foundation has taken a new lease of life. Under the guidance of the Board of Directors of the Foundation, of which Mr. Thomas J. Watson is President, and the expert administration of Mrs. McKee Stone, the Foundation will be expanded on a nation-wide scale. It has strengthened its Board of Directors by the addition of new members, and will establish chapters in the chief urban centers of the Union. The intention is to make it an organization of American friends of Holland. As such it could hardly continue to function as the Cultural Committee of Holland House. But the severance of the two names on the letter head does not mean that the two organizations have ceased to collaborate. Whenever one can complement the good work that is being done by the other, there will be cordial cooperation. But the Foundation has stepped out of its subsidiary role and intends henceforth to play an independent part. Its first public appearance in the new year took place on Monday, the tenth of January, when the Foundation gave a dinner to Her Royal Highness, Princess Juliana, at the Waldorf-Astoria.

THIS seems to be the appropriate moment to review in brief the twenty odd years that have elapsed since the Foundation was ushered into existence. Its sponsor was Dr. Hamilton Holt, now President of Rollins College, but at that time editor of The Independent. He was an enthusiastic champion of international cooperation and shared Woodrow Wilson's hopes for the establishment of world peace under the aegis of the League of Nations. He had great admiration for Holland and for the skill and tenacity with which that country had maintained its neutrality during the first World War. It had not escaped his notice that the plans for the League of Nations had been hailed with enthusiasm among the Dutch people. He felt the need of strengthening the ties by which his own nation was bound to a country so faithfully devoted to the ideals of free trade and peace. In May, 1921, he called a meeting, at the Century Club, of Americans and Hollanders whom he knew to be in sympathy with the plan he had in mind. Edward Bok had come over from Philadelphia, Henry van Dyke, former United States Minister at The Hague, from Princeton, William Gorham Rice, the authority on Dutch carillons, from Albany. Others present were Oscar S. Straus, former United States Minister in Constantinople, Stephen P. Duggan, Director of the Institute of International Education, the Netherlands Consul General Steyn Parvé, Willem van Doorn, General Manager of the Holland-America Line, Constant Vanderhooven, of Lindeteves Inc., and myself. At that meeting the Foundation came into being. Its first President was Edward Bok, who persuaded Franklin D. Roosevelt to join him as Vice-President. I remember many a meeting at the latter's house in East 65*th Street or in his law office downtown. He resigned in March,* 1933, when he became, from second-in-command on the Foundation's nutshell, commander-in-chief of the ship of State. Few are left of the Board of Directors of those days, but those few remember with pleasure the meetings at which he presided.

EDWARD BOK, who hated the waste of duplicated effort, was greatly in favor of amalgamating the Foundation with the Netherlands Chamber of Commerce in this city. There was the more reason for a fusion since the Chamber was also active in the cultural field. The President of the Chamber, Mr. William C. Redfield, former Secretary of Commerce in Woodrow Wilson's Cabinet, agreed to Bok's proposals, and at a meeting in Mr. Roosevelt's house, on May 23*rd,* 1922, the merger of the two organizations was accomplished. Mr. Bok, from a desire to tie the knot still more firmly, resigned from the presidency in order to leave Mr. Redfield in sole charge of both the Foundation and the Chamber. The Chamber, in those days, published a handsomely printed monthly called "Holland and her Colonies". The first issue of the third year carried on its title page the announcement "Published under the Auspices of the Netherland-America Affiliation". Under that name the two made a determined effort to collaborate. But the fusion, unfortunately, was short-lived. It was dissolved in December, 1923. Immediately after the severance of the ties with the Chamber, Mr. Redfield requested me to write a monthly bulletin which he intended to be the official organ of the Foundation. It made its appearance in December, 1923. During the first year it was distributed in mimeographed copies, but in March, 1925, the Monthly Letter was issued for the first time in its present form.

IN the year 1926 Mr. Redfield resigned and was succeeded by Mr. William Van Wyck. He was president of the Foundation during the difficult years of the depression. It did not weather the storm without damage. Wealthy patrons withdrew their support, the membership list was reduced, the income of the Foundation barely sufficed to defray the costs of administration, the annual report, which used to be printed on handsome paper, remained in abeyance, and only through the regular appearance of the Monthly Letter did the Foundation give evidence of its survival. Our Executive Director, Mr. G. Evans Hubbard, managed to keep the little ship afloat. He resigned, however, in the summer of 1935, after fourteen years of continuous and devoted service. His place was taken by Mr. Harold de Wolf Fuller, who had been editor of the New York Nation from 1910 till 1917. He assumed his new task as a labor of love. For he treasured the memory of a year's residence at Leyden, where he studied Dutch literature under Professor Gerrit Kalff. After his return from Holland he taught in the English Department at Harvard, and gave, in addition to his English classes, a course in Dutch language and literature. A verse translation of the Middle Dutch legend of "Beatrijs," which he published in 1909, brought proof that he was familiar also with the medieval form of the language. We became acquainted during his stay at Leyden, we renewed our friendship after my arrival in New York, and were fellow workers for two years on the editorial board of the New York Weekly Review, which Fuller, together with Fabian Franklin, had founded in 1919.

MR. FULLER moved the office of the Foundation to Stuyvesant Square, not a very accessible spot, but one that was attractive to our members for its associations with the city's Dutch past. A memorial tablet in the wall of a neighboring house informed the inquisitive that this was once the residence of Washington Irving. One could not get much closer to Stuyvesant's age in this modern city, for it has preserved few landmarks that date back to the pre-Revolutionary period. Near Irving's old home the Foundation had its headquarters until it moved to 10 Rockefeller Plaza. We did not withdraw from the Square without leaving a reminder of our brief occupancy. Mr. Fuller regretted the official discontinuance of the name Stuyvesant Square. The post office address of the Foundation was 239 East 17th Street, which did not intimate any connection between our aims and the location the Executive Director had selected for the office. He wanted to bring the last Governor of New Netherland back to the square that had borne his name, and it was largely thanks to his initiative, efficiently aided by a committee of patriotic New York women, that Mrs. Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney's statue of Peter Stuyvesant now stands on his pedestal surveying the square and the children at play around its base.

SINCE October, 1922, the Foundation has had a Dutch counterpart in the Nederlandsch-Amerikaansche Fundatie at The Hague. The two sister organizations have harmoniously coöperated for the furtherance of their common aims. There was especially close contact between them in the days when Mr. Willem Westerman was president of the Fundatie. His banking business often brought him to New York, and he never failed to utilize his presence here for attending to the common interests of the two organizations. A list of all the good things they accomplished together would make dull reading and take up more space than this folder can spare. A brief summary will suffice, from which all names and details are omitted. Dutch students, supplied with scholarships by the Fundatie, were given aid and introductions by our New York office. The Foundation arranged dinners and receptions in honor of prominent Hollanders who passed through New York. Exhibitions of Dutch art were held under the auspices of the Foundation, lectures were given to the members and their guests on Holland and the Dutch East Indies, and in Holland similar activities, under the auspices of the Fundatie, spread knowledge of America's cultural achievement and created good will towards this country among the Dutch. In 1936, the Foundation took the initiative for a commemoration of Erasmus, on the four hundredth anniversary of his death. This impressive ceremony was held in the Low Memorial Library of Columbia University in November of that year. Under the leadership of the Board of Directors the Foundation entered upon better days, and now that Mrs. McKee Stone, who is an expert at organizing—the dinner for Princess Juliana brought proof of it —has taken charge as National Director, the future looks bright and rich in promise. Nothing succeeds like success, says the proverb. Having witnessed the brilliant success that Mrs. Stone made of the banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria, our members can feel sure that she will succeed in her further efforts to strengthen and expand the Netherland-America Foundation.

Dear Mr. Wheeler:

I am pleased to send you herewith a new batch of photographs of objects from Surinam. Will you please be kind enough to hand them over to Mr. d'Harnancourt.

You may keep this whole collection since we have a second set in our office.

As it is to our commong interest that the Mondriaan Exhibition assumes as large a scope as possible, I am constantly urging the Netherland-America Foundation to confirm to you that they are able to make the donation as you suggested. Please see enclosed copy of my letter to them of May 1st.

Unfortunately, Mrs. Wylie Brown, Chairman of the Art Committee of the Netherland-America Foundation, has been out of town for the past ten days but she promised to take the matter firmly in hand upon her return on Monday.

Dear Mrs. Stone:

In connection with the plans for the Mondriaan Exhibition, I know that the Directors of the Museum of Modern Art are anxious to get a definite reply.

As I told you, our Library is willing to purchase 2000 books at 75¢ a piece but before confirming this to the Museum we would like to be assured by the Netherlands-America Foundation that they are able to donate $1000 because only then can we be sure that the Exhibition will be of large enough scope.

Since you have been assured that the money would be available but that the donater does not care to make this gift all by himself and I am afraid that useful time will be lost, I wonder whether you can not approach this donater again and invite him to confirm to you that in case you are not able to find supporting donations he will be willing to donate the full amount of $1000.00.

If we could obtain this confirmation, we could send our letter of confirmation to the Museum and the Museum could go ahead setting the date and starting the work.

I do not need to tell you that a Museum like the Museum of Modern Art must make their arrangements a long time in advance.

Mr. Rambout van Riemsdijk
The Netherlands Information Bureau
10 Rockefeller Plaza
New York 20, New York

Dear Mr. van Riemsdijk:

Since the death of Piet Mondrian the Museum of Modern Art has been considering the possibility of holding a one-man retrospective exhibition which would give a comprehensive survey of his life achievement, inasmuch as he is unquestionably one of the most significant modern artists and his influence has been felt throughout Europe and America in the field of typography and the graphic arts. The resourcefulness and integrity with which he pursued over many years his research in the field of abstract design and simplified color both attest to the strength of his character and personality which can also be measured in his effect upon the work of his contemporaries in other fields.

Because of the Museum's diverse activities in all the fields of contemporary art, such as Painting, Sculpture, Architecture, Industrial Design, Photography, Films, etc., our present budget will permit us to do only a comparatively small Mondrian exhibition and I am writing you in the hope of ascertaining whether you know of any Dutch organizations or individuals who might be far-sighted enough to assist us financially in the presentation of a Mondrian exhibition. If we were dependent entirely upon our own funds we should be able to present only a small exhibition in our Auditorium Gallery. But if additional contributions could be obtained in the amount of $1000., it would be possible for us to do a major exhibition on the ground floor of the Museum.

We should also like if possible tp publish simultaneously with the exhibition a definitive illustrated volume on Mondrian. This also we could not afford to do without special subsidy in the form of the purchase of 2000 copies of a 64 page book, 7½ X 10" with approximately 50 plates including at least one in color.

If you know of any Dutch people who would be interested in helping us in this way to acknowledge the fame andachievement of the most distinguished and original Dutch artist since van Gogh I should be very glad to know of them.

Very sincerely yours,

My Mondrian was shipped yesterday from Boston by McBrine. I hope none of the freight embargos will hold it up.

I have been semi-hospitalized in Boston for the past month with a bout of strong sciatica and had taken the Mondrian there to lighten my existence. It transformed my otherwise classically dull Ritz room and made my Boston period a little less grim.

My absence in the frozen north will also explain why I have not written to congratulate you sooner on your new job. I am thrilled you accepted and hope it will be of long duration. I think it is perfectly allright to go ahead with the Beck Engraving Company. Tremaine left it to our discretion. Anyhow, it seems to me that $1,000 is more than even he should pay.

Company could give us a very satisfactory reproduction of this particular subject in four-color photoengraving and, since this is the method we are using for the other Mondrian reproductions, we would like to have your authorization to do your picture in this way.

The total cost of engravings, retouching, and printing this plate will be $400. If you are willing to authorize us to proceed on this basis, will you kindly send us your check in that amount as a contribution to the cost of the publication, on which basis it will be deductible for income tax purposes inasmuch as the Museum is a non-profit educational institution.

Re: Miller Co. Mondrian

From: Mr. Wheeler

I have discussed with Arthur Jaffé the reproduction of the Miller Company's Mondrian in his Heliochrome Collotype process. He says that he will be unable to accept any additional work before May and even then cannot guarantee any delivery date. His process is a slow one and he has never produced anything for us in less than three months.

Aside from the question of time, Mr. Jaffé also said that his Collotype process is extremely uneconomical for a single small reproduction. He thinks that the Beck Engraving Company can provide a very satisfactory reproduction of this subject with letter press plates. So, in view of his inability to do the work now, I think our only course is to proceed with Beck and give the job our usual careful supervision. I am asking Mr. Tremaine for his approval of this procedure.

I have consulted Mr. Arthur Jaffe about reproducing your Mondrian in his Collotype process. In the first place, he is unable to accept any more work until May and cannot guarantee completion in less than three months after that, so it is out of the question on the basis of time alone. He said, furthermore, that his process is extremely uneconomical for a single small reproduction and would cost at least $1000. Dear Mrs. Spreckles:

I am enclosing the usual Registrar's form in connection with the loan of the Mondrian Victory Boogie-Woogie which you so kindly promised us for the memorial exhibition of Mondrian's work. Will you be so good as to give us the insurance valuation at which you wish it insured and also any other details regarding the catalog listing and return shipment.

I am asking our truckers to pick it up from the Valentine Gallery on Tuesday, January 30th.

Thanking you for your generous loan of this to the Museum's Memorial Exhibition,

Re: Mrs. Tremaine's Mondrian

From: MA

Per instructions from the Miller Company, Meriden, Conn., we are delivering Mrs. Tremaine's (Spreckles) Mondrian Victory Boogie Woogie to the Miller Company, 315 Fourth Avenue, N.Y. on Thursday. We are sending it in the new frame which they wished to purchase. The cost of the frame is $10.00. Would you like to send a bill to them. I suppose that it should be sent attention Mr. S. R. Naysmith, Vice-President in Charge of Engineering, The Miller Co., Meriden, Conn. since he has written us all the xxxxxx letters in connection with this transaction.

From: M.Allen

Will you please have Dan go to the apartment of Mrs. Joseph Freeman, 301 East 38th Street after 1 o'clock this afternoon (but before 4:30 this afternoon) to collect a painting by Mondrian which Mr. Sweeney wants up here to be photographed for the Mondrian exhibition.

I am attaching a pick-up order for the collection.

Dan is to bring this back in a cab, and will you please try to impress on him how fragile the painting is and how carefully it must be handled. Tell him to keep the painted side up as the painting has no frame outside of a narrow strip frame (like our Museum one).

Dear Mr. Sweeney:

Just a word to tell you how much I admire your unusually distinguished selection and arrangement of the Mondrian exhibition. I hope that you may find it possible to make some colored slides of views of the exhibition. It struck me very forcibly that the paintings set within such a spacial framework, fully justified Mondrian's own feeling about space. If you could do this, we would eagerly purchase whatever slides you made in duplicate.

We are all looking forward very much to your lecturing here next Tuesday, and I hope you will find it possible to meet a few people afterwards in my apartment, where appropriate refreshments will be available in quantity.

No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property herein desribed shall be responsible for the mechanical functions of pianos, radios, phonographs, clocks, mechanical refrigerators, or other instruments or appliances, whether or not such articles are packed, unpacked, or packed and unpacked by the shipper or his agent or carrier or its agents. No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property herein described shall be liable for damage to linoleum or clay heating elements of gas or electric heaters. No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property herein described shall be liable for damage to or loss of contents of pieces of furniture, crates bundles, cartons, boxes, barrels or other containers unless such contents are open for carrier's inspection and then only for such articles as are specifically listed by the shipper and receipted for by the carrier or its agents.

(c) No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property herein described shall be liable for delay caused by obstructions, faulty or impassable highway, lack of capacity of any highway, bridge, ferry, or caused by breakdown or mechanical defect of vehicles or equipment.

(d) The carrier's liability shall be that of a warehouseman, only, for loss damage, or delay caused by fire occurring after the arrival of the property at destination or at the port of export (if intended for export) and tender of delivery of the property to the party entitled to receive it or at the address given for delivery has been made. Except in case of negligence of the carrier or party in possession, the carrier or party in possession shall not be liable for loss, damage, or delay occurring while the property is stopped and held or stored in transit upon the request of the shipper, owner, or party entitled to make such request, whether such request was made before or after the carrier comes into possession of the property.

(e) In case of quarantine the property may be discharged at the risk and expense of the owners into quarantine depot or elsewhere, as required by quarantine regulations or authorities, and in such cases, carrier's responsibility shall cease when the property is so discharged, or property may be returned by carrier at owner's expense to shipping point earning charges both ways. Quarantine expense of whatever nature or kind upon or in respect to the property shall be borne by the owners of the property or be a lien thereon. The carrier shall not be liable for loss or damage occasioned by fumigation or disinfection or other acts done or required by quarantine regulations or authorities even though the same may have been done by carrier's officers, agents, or employees, nor for detention, loss or damage of any kind occasioned by quarantine or the enforcement thereof. No carrier shall be liable, except in case of negligence, for any mistake or inaccuracy in any information furnished by the carrier, its agents, or officers, as to quarantine laws or regulations. The shipper shall hold the carriers harmless from any expense they may incur, or damages they may be required to pay, by reason of the introduction of the property covered by this contract into any place against the quarantine laws or regulations in effect at such place.

Sec. 2. (a) No carrier is bound to transport said property by any particular schedule, vehicle, train or vessel or otherwise than with reasonable dispatch. Every carrier shall have the right in case of physical necessity to forward said property by any carrier or route between the point of shipment and the point of destination. In all cases not prohibited by law, where a lower value than actual value has been represented in writing by the shipper or has been agreed upon in writing as the released value of the property as determined by the classification or tariff upon which the rate is based, such lower value less charges shall be the maximum amount to be recovered, whether or not such loss or damage occurs from negligence.

(b) As a condition precedent to recovery, claims must be filed in writing with the receiving or delivering carrier, or carrier issuing this bill of lading, or carrier in possession of the property when the loss, damage, injury or delay occurred, within nine months after delivery of the property (or in case of export traffic, within nine months after delivery at port of export), or, in case of failure to make delivery, then within nine months after a reasonable time, for delivery has elapsed; and suits shall be instituted against any carrier only within two years and one day from the day when notice in writing is given by the carrier to the claimant that the carrier has disallowed the claim or any part or parts thereof specified in the notice. Where claims are not filed or suits are not instituted thereon in accordance with the forgoing provisions, no carrier hereunder shall be liable, and such claims will not be paid.

(c) Any carrier or party liable on account of loss or damage to any of said property shall have the full benefit of any insurance that may have been effected upon or on account of said property so far as this shall not avoid the policies or contracts of insurance; provided that the carrier reimburse the claimant for the premium paid thereon.

Sec. 3. Except where such service is required as the result of carrier's negligence, all property shall be subject to necessary cooperage, packing and repacking at owner's cost.

Sec. 4. (a) Property not received by the party entitled to receive it within the free time (if any) allowed by tariffs lawfully on file (such free time to be computed as therein provided) after notice of the arrival of the property at destination or at the port of export (if intended for export) has been duly sent or given, and after placement of the property for delivery at destination, or at the time tender of delivery of the property to the party entitled to receive it or at the address given for delivery has been made, may be kept in vehicle, warehouse or place of business of the carrier, subject to the tariff charge for storage and to carrier's responsibility as warehouseman, only, or at the option of the carrier, may be removed to and stored in a warehouse at the point of delivery or at other available points, at the cost of the owner, and there held without liability on the part of the carrier, and subject to a lien for all transportation and other lawful charges, including a reasonable charge for storage. In the event the consignee can not be found at the address given for delivery, then in that event, notice of the placing of such goods in warehouse shall be left at the address given for delivery and mailed to any other address given on the bill of lading for notification, showing the warehouse in which such property has been placed, subject to the provisions of this paragraph.

(b) Where nonperishable property which has been transported to destination hereunder is refused by consignee or the party entitled to receive it upon tender of delivery, or said consignee or party entitled to receive it fails to receive it or claim within 15 days after notice of arrival of the property at destination shall have been duly sent or given, the carrier may sell the same at public auction to the highest bidder, at such place as may be designated by the carrier; provided, that the carrier shall have first mailed, sent, or given to the consignor notice that the property has been refused or remains unclaimed, as the case may be, and that it will be subject to sale under the terms of the bill of lading if disposition be not arranged for, and shall have published notice containing a description of the property, the name of the party to whom consigned, and the time and place of sale, once a week for two successive weeks, in a newspaper of general circulation at the place of sale or nearest place where such newspaper is published; provided, that 30 days shall have elapsed before publication of notice of sale after said notice that the property was refused or remains unclaimed was mailed, sent, or given.

(c) Where perishable property which has been transported hereunder to destination is refused by consignee or party entitled to receive it, or said consignee or party entitled to receive it shall fail to receive it promptly, the carrier may, in its discretion, to prevent deterioration or further deterioration, sell the same to the best advantage at private or public sale: provided, that if there be time for service of notification to the consignor or owner of the refusal of the property or the failure to receive it and request for disposition of the property, such notification shall be given, in such manner as the exercise of due diligence requires, before the property is sold.

(d) Where the procedure provided for in the two paragraphs last preceding is not possible, it is agreed that nothing contained in said paragraphs shall be construed to abridge the right of the carrier at its option to sell the property under such circumstances and in such manner as may be authorized by law.

(e) The proceeds of any sale made under this section shall be applied by the carrier to the payment of advances, tariff charges, packing, storage, and any other lawful charges and the expense of notice, advertisement, sale, and other necessary expense and of caring for and maintaining the property, if proper care of the same requires special expense and should there be a balance, it shall be paid to the owner of the property sold hereunder.

(f) Where the carrier is directed to take property from a place or places at which the consignor or his agent is not present the property shall be at the risk of the owner before loading

Where the carrier is directed to unload or deliver property at a place or places at which the consignee or its agent is not present the property shall be at the risk of the owner after unloading or delivery.

Sec. 5. No carrier hereunder will carry or be liable in any way for any documents, specie, or for any articles of extraordinary value not specifically rated in the published classifications or tariffs unless a special agreement to do so and a stipulated value of the articles are endorsed hereon.

Sec. 6. Explosives or dangerous goods will not be accepted for shipment. Every party whether principal or agent shipping such goods shall be liable for and indemnify the carrier against all loss or damage caused by such goods and carrier will not be liable for safe delivery of the shipment.

Sec. 7. The owner or consignee shall pay the advances, tariff charges, packing and storage, if any, and all other lawful charges accruing on said property; but, except in those instances where it may lawfully be authorized to do so, no carrier shall deliver or relinquish possession at destination of the property covered by this bill of lading until all tariff rates and charges thereon have been paid. The consignor shall be liable for the advances, tariff charges packing, storage and all other lawful charges, except that if the consignor stipulates, by signature, in the space provided for that purpose on the face of this bill of lading that the carrier shall not make delivery without requiring payment of such charges and the carrier, contrary to such stipulation, shall make delivery without requiring such payment, the consignor (except as hereinafter provided) shall not be liable for such charges: Provided, that, where the carrier has been instructed by the shipper or consignor to deliver said property to a consignee other than the shipper or consignor, such consignee shall not be legally liable for transportation charges in respect of the transportation of said property (beyond those billed against him at the time of delivery for which he is otherwise liable) which may be found to be due after the property has been delivered to him, if the consignee (a) is an agent only and has no beneficial title to said property and, (b) prior to delivery of said property has notified the delivering carrier in writing of the fact of such agency and absence of beneficial title, and, in the case of a shipment reconsigned or diverted to a point other than that specified in the original bill of lading, has also notified the delivering carrier in writing of the name and address of the beneficial owner of said property; and in such cases the shipper or consignor, or, in the case of a shipment so reconsigned or diverted, the beneficial owner, shall be liable for such additional charges. If the consignee has given to the carrier erroneous information as to who the beneficial owner is, such consignee shall himself be liable for such additional charges. Nothing herein shall limit the right of the carrier to require at time of shipment, the prepayment of the charges. If upon inspection it is ascertained that the articles shipped are not those described in this bill of lading, the advances or tariff charges must be paid upon the articles actually shipped.

Sec. 8. If this bill of lading is issued on the order of the shipper, or his agent, in exchange or in substitution for another bill of lading, the shipper's signature to the prior bill of lading as to the statement of value or otherwise, or election for common law or bill of lading liability, in or in connection with such prior bill of lading, shall be considered a part of this bill of lading as fully as if the same were written or made in or in connection with this bill of lading.

Sec. 9. (a) If all or any part of said property is carried by water over any part of said route, such water carriage shall be performed subject to all the terms and provisions of, and all the exemptions from liability contained in, the Act of Congress of the United States, approved on February 13, 1893, and entitled "An Act relating to the navigation of vessels, etc.," and of other statutes of the United States according carriers by water the protection of limited liability, and to the conditions contained in this bill of lading not inconsistent therewith or with this section.

(b) No such carrier by water shall be liable for any loss or damage resulting from any fire happening to or on board the vessel, or from explosion, bursting of boilers or breakage of shafts, unless caused by the design or neglect of such carrier.

(c) If the owner shall have exercised due diligence in making the vessel in all respects seaworthy and properly manned, equipped, and supplied, no such carrier shall be liable for any loss or damage resulting from the perils of the lakes, seas, or other waters, or from latent defects in hull, machinery, or appurtenances whether existing prior to, at the time of, or after sailing, or from collision, stranding, or other accidents of navigation, or from prolongation of the voyage. And, when for any reason it is necessary, any vessel carrying any or all of the property herein described shall be at liberty to call at any port or ports, in or out of the customary route, to tow and be towed, to transfer, trans-ship, or lighter, to load and discharge goods at any time, to assist vessels in distress, to deviate for the purpose of saving life or property, and for docking and repairs. Except in case of negligence such carrier shall not be responsible for any loss or damage to property if it be necessary or is usual to carry the same upon deck.

(d) General Average shall be payable according to the York-Antwerp Rules of 1924, Sections 1 to 15, inclusive, and Sections 17 to 22, inclusive, and as to matters not covered thereby according to the laws and usages of the Port of New York. If the owners shall have exercised due diligence to make the vessel in all respects seaworthy and properly manned, equipped and supplied, it is hereby agreed that in case of danger, damage or disaster resulting from faults or errors in navigation, or in the management of the vessel, or from any latent or other defects in the vessel, her machinery or appurtenances, or from unseaworthiness, whether existing at the time of shipment or at the beginning of the voyage (provided the latent or other defects or the unseaworthiness was not discoverable by the exercise of due diligence), the shippers, consignees and/or owners of the cargo shall nevertheless pay salvage and any special charges incurred in respect of the cargo, and shall contribute with the ship-owner in general average to the payment of any sacrifices, losses or expenses of a general average nature that may be made or incurred for the common benefit or to relieve the adventure from any common peril.

(e) If the property is being carried under a tariff which provides that any carrier party thereto shall be liable for loss from perils of the sea, then as to such carrier or carriers the provisions of this section shall be modified in accordance with the tariff provisions, which shall be regarded as incorporated into the conditions of this bill of lading.

(f) The term "water carriage" in this section shall not be construed as including lighterage in or across rivers, harbors, or lakes, when performed by or on behalf of carriers other than water.

Sec. 10. Any alteration, addition or erasure in this bill of lading which shall be made without the special notation hereon of the agent of the carrier issuing this bill of lading, shall be without effect, and this bill of lading shall be enforceable according to its original tenor.

CONTRACT TERMS AND CONDITIONS

Sec. 1. (a) The carrier or party in possession of any of the property herein described shall be liable as to common law for any loss thereof or damage thereto, except as hereinafter provided. Allied Van Lines, Inc. will be responsible to the same extent as the bill of lading carrier.

(b) No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property herein described shall be liable for any loss thereof or damage thereto or delay caused by the act of God, the public enemy, the acts of public authority, quarantine, riots, strikes, perils of navigation, the act or default of the shipper or owner, the nature of the property or defect or inherent vice therein, occurrences in customs warehouse, or for any loss or damage to paintings, statuary, ornamental metal work, works of art, articles of virtu, photographs or pictures, antiques, dishes, glassware, musical instruments, vases, mirrors, marble or enamel pieces, lamps, lamp shades or other fragile articles, unless such loss or damage was caused by the negligence of the carrier or party in possession, and the responsibility to prove such negligence shall be on the shipper, except where arrangements have been made for the packing and unpacking of such articles by the carrier or its agent. No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property herein desribed shall be responsible for the mechanical functions of pianos, radios, phonographs, clocks, mechanical refrigerators, or other instruments or appliances, whether or not such articles are packed, unpacked, or packed and unpacked by the shipper or his agent or carrier or its agents. No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property herein described shall be liable for damage to linoleum or clay heating elements of gas or electric heaters. No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property herein described shall be liable for damage to or loss of contents of pieces of furniture, crates bundles, cartons, boxes, barrels or other containers unless such contents are open for carrier's inspection and then only for such articles as are specifically listed by the shipper and receipted for by the carrier or its agents.

(c) No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property herein described shall be liable for delay caused by obstructions, faulty or impassable highway, lack of capacity of any highway, bridge, ferry, or caused by breakdown or mechanical defect of vehicles or equipment.

(d) The carrier's liability shall be that of a warehouseman, only, for loss damage, or delay caused by fire occurring after the arrival of the property at destination or at the port of export (if intended for export) and tender of delivery of the property to the party entitled to receive it or at the address given for delivery has been made. Except in case of negligence of the carrier or party in possession, the carrier or party in possession shall not be liable for loss, damage, or delay occurring while the property is stopped and held or stored in transit upon the request of the shipper, owner, or party entitled to make such request, whether such request was made before or after the carrier comes into possession of the property.

(e) In case of quarantine the property may be discharged at the risk and expense of the owners into quarantine depot or elsewhere, as required by quarantine regulations or authorities, and in such cases, carrier's responsibility shall cease when the property is so discharged, or property may be returned by carrier at owner's expense to shipping point earning charges both ways. Quarantine expense of whatever nature or kind upon or in respect to the property shall be borne by the owners of the property or be a lien thereon. The carrier shall not be liable for loss or damage occasioned by fumigation or disinfection or other acts done or required by quarantine regulations or authorities even though the same may have been done by carrier's officers, agents, or employees, nor for detention, loss or damage of any kind occasioned by quarantine or the enforcement thereof. No carrier shall be liable, except in case of negligence, for any mistake or inaccuracy in any information furnished by the carrier, its agents, or officers, as to quarantine laws or regulations. The shipper shall hold the carriers harmless from any expense they may incur, or damages they may be required to pay, by reason of the introduction of the property covered by this contract into any place against the quarantine laws or regulations in effect at such place.

Sec. 2. (a) No carrier is bound to transport said property by any particular schedule, vehicle, train or vessel or otherwise than with reasonable dispatch. Every carrier shall have the right in case of physical necessity to forward said property by any carrier or route between the point of shipment and the point of destination. In all cases not prohibited by law, where a lower value than actual value has been represented in writing by the shipper or has been agreed upon in writing as the released value of the property as determined by the classification or tariff upon which the rate is based, such lower value less charges shall be the maximum amount to be recovered, whether or not such loss or damage occurs from negligence.

(b) As a condition precedent to recovery, claims must be filed in writing with the receiving or delivering carrier, or carrier issuing this bill of lading, or carrier in possession of the property when the loss, damage, injury or delay occurred, within nine months after delivery of the property (or in case of export traffic, within nine months after delivery at port of export), or, in case of failure to make delivery, then within nine months after a reasonable time, for delivery has elapsed; and suits shall be instituted against any carrier only within two years and one day from the day when notice in writing is given by the carrier to the claimant that the carrier has disallowed the claim or any part or parts thereof specified in the notice. Where claims are not filed or suits are not instituted thereon in accordance with the forgoing provisions, no carrier hereunder shall be liable, and such claims will not be paid.

(c) Any carrier or party liable on account of loss or damage to any of said property shall have the full benefit of any insurance that may have been effected upon or on account of said property so far as this shall not avoid the policies or contracts of insurance; provided that the carrier reimburse the claimant for the premium paid thereon.

Sec. 3. Except where such service is required as the result of carrier's negligence, all property shall be subject to necessary cooperage, packing and repacking at owner's cost.

Sec. 4. (a) Property not received by the party entitled to receive it within the free time (if any) allowed by tariffs lawfully on file (such free time to be computed as therein provided) after notice of the arrival of the property at destination or at the port of export (if intended for export) has been duly sent or given, and after placement of the property for delivery at destination, or at the time tender of delivery of the property to the party entitled to receive it or at the address given for delivery has been made, may be kept in vehicle, warehouse or place of business of the carrier, subject to the tariff charge for storage and to carrier's responsibility as warehouseman, only, or at the option of the carrier, may be removed to and stored in a warehouse at the point of delivery or at other available points, at the cost of the owner, and there held without liability on the part of the carrier, and subject to a lien for all transportation and other lawful charges, including a reasonable charge for storage. In the event the consignee can not be found at the address given for delivery, then in that event, notice of the placing of such goods in warehouse shall be left at the address given for delivery and mailed to any other address given on the bill of lading for notification, showing the warehouse in which such property has been placed, subject to the provisions of this paragraph.

(b) Where nonperishable property which has been transported to destination hereunder is refused by consignee or the party entitled to receive it upon tender of delivery, or said consignee or party entitled to receive it fails to receive it or claim within 15 days after notice of arrival of the property at destination shall have been duly sent or given, the carrier may sell the same at public auction to the highest bidder, at such place as may be designated by the carrier; provided, that the carrier shall have first mailed, sent, or given to the consignor notice that the property has been refused or remains unclaimed, as the case may be, and that it will be subject to sale under the terms of the bill of lading if disposition be not arranged for, and shall have published notice containing a description of the property, the name of the party to whom consigned, and the time and place of sale, once a week for two successive weeks, in a newspaper of general circulation at the place of sale or nearest place where such newspaper is published; provided, that 30 days shall have elapsed before publication of notice of sale after said notice that the property was refused or remains unclaimed was mailed, sent, or given.

(c) Where perishable property which has been transported hereunder to destination is refused by consignee or party entitled to receive it, or said consignee or party entitled to receive it shall fail to receive it promptly, the carrier may, in its discretion, to prevent deterioration or further deterioration, sell the same to the best advantage at private or public sale; provided, that if there be time for service of notification to the consignor or owner of the refusal of the property or the failure to receive it and request for disposition of the property, such notification shall be given, in such manner as the exercise of due diligence requires, before the property is sold.

(d) Where the procedure provided for in the two paragraphs last preceding is not possible, it is agreed that nothing contained in said paragraphs shall be construed to abridge the right of the carrier at its option to sell the property under such circumstances and in such manner as may be authorized by law.

(e) The proceeds of any sale made under this section shall be applied by the carrier to the payment of advances, tariff charges, packing, storage, and any other lawful charges and the expense of notice, advertisement, sale, and other necessary expense and of caring for and maintaining the property, if proper care of the same requires special expense and should there be a balance, it shall be paid to the owner of the property sold hereunder.

(f) Where the carrier is directed to take property from a place or places at which the consignor or his agent is not present the property shall be at the risk of the owner before loading

Where the carrier is directed to unload or deliver property at a place or places at which the consignee or its agent is not present the property shall be at the risk of the owner after unloading or delivery.

Sec. 5. No carrier hereunder will carry or be liable in any way for any documents, specie, or for any articles of extraordinary value not specifically rated in the published classifications or tariffs unless a special agreement to do so and a stipulated value of the articles are endorsed hereon.

Sec. 6. Explosives or dangerous goods will not be accepted for shipment. Every party whether principal or agent shipping such goods shall be liable for and indemnify the carrier against all loss or damage caused by such goods and carrier will not be liable for safe delivery of the shipment.

Sec. 7. The owner or consignee shall pay the advances, tariff charges, packing and storage, if any, and all other lawful charges accruing on said property; but, except in those instances where it may lawfully be authorized to do so, no carrier shall deliver or relinquish possession at destination of the property covered by this bill of lading until all tariff rates and charges thereon have been paid. The consignor shall be liable for the advances, tariff charges packing, storage and all other lawful charges, except that if the consignor stipulates, by signature, in the space provided for that purpose on the face of this bill of lading that the carrier shall not make delivery without requiring payment of such charges and the carrier, contrary to such stipulation, shall make delivery without requiring such payment, the consignor (except as hereinafter provided) shall not be liable for such charges: Provided, that, where the carrier has been instructed by the shipper or consignor to deliver said property to a consignee other than the shipper or consignor, such consignee shall not be legally liable for transportation charges in respect of the transportation of said property (beyond those billed against him at the time of delivery for which he is otherwise liable) which may be found to be due after the property has been delivered to him, if the consignee (a) is an agent only and has no beneficial title to said property and, (b) prior to delivery of said property has notified the delivering carrier in writing of the fact of such agency and absence of beneficial title, and, in the case of a shipment reconsigned or diverted to a point other than that specified in the original bill of lading, has also notified the delivering carrier in writing of the name and address of the beneficial owner of said property; and in such cases the shipper or consignor, or, in the case of a shipment so reconsigned or diverted, the beneficial owner, shall be liable for such additional charges. If the consignee has given to the carrier erroneous information as to who the beneficial owner is, such consignee shall himself be liable for such additional charges. Nothing herein shall limit the right of the carrier to require at time of shipment, the prepayment of the charges. If upon inspection it is ascertained that the articles shipped are not those described in this bill of lading, the advances or tariff charges must be paid upon the articles actually shipped.

Sec. 8. If this bill of lading is issued on the order of the shipper, or his agent, in exchange or in substitution for another bill of lading, the shipper's signature to the prior bill of lading as to the statement of value or otherwise, or election for common law or bill of lading liability, in or in connection with such prior bill of lading, shall be considered a part of this bill of lading as fully as if the same were written or made in or in connection with this bill of lading.

Sec. 9. (a) If all or any part of said property is carried by water over any part of said route, such water carriage shall be performed subject to all the terms and provisions of, and all the exemptions from liability contained in, the Act of Congress of the United States, approved on February 13, 1893, and entitled "An Act relating to the navigation of vessels, etc.," and of other statutes of the United States according carriers by water the protection of limited liability, and to the conditions contained in this bill of lading not inconsistent therewith or with this section.

(b) No such carrier by water shall be liable for any loss or damage resulting from any fire happening to or on board the vessel, or from explosion, bursting of boilers or breakage of shafts, unless caused by the design or neglect of such carrier.

(c) If the owner shall have exercised due diligence in making the vessel in all respects seaworthy and properly manned, equipped, and supplied, no such carrier shall be liable for any loss or damage resulting from the perils of the lakes, seas, or other waters, or from latent defects in hull, machinery, or appurtenances whether existing prior to, at the time of, or after sailing, or from collision, stranding, or other accidents of navigation, or from prolongation of the voyage. And, when for any reason it is necessary, any vessel carrying any or all of the property herein described shall be at liberty to call at any port or ports, in or out of the customary route, to tow and be towed, to transfer, trans-ship, or lighter, to load and discharge goods at any time, to assist vessels in distress, to deviate for the purpose of saving life or property, and for docking and repairs. Except in case of negligence such carrier shall not be responsible for any loss or damage to property if it be necessary or is usual to carry the same upon deck.

(d) General Average shall be payable according to the York-Antwerp Rules of 1924, Sections 1 to 15, inclusive, and Sections 17 to 22, inclusive, and as to matters not covered thereby according to the laws and usages of the Port of New York. If the owners shall have exercised due diligence to make the vessel in all respects seaworthy and properly manned, equipped and supplied, it is hereby agreed that in case of danger, damage or disaster resulting from faults or errors in navigation, or in the management of the vessel, or from any latent or other defects in the vessel, her machinery or appurtenances, or from unseaworthiness, whether existing at the time of shipment or at the beginning of the voyage (provided the latent or other defects or the unseaworthiness was not discoverable by the exercise of due diligence), the shippers, consignees and/or owners of the cargo shall nevertheless pay salvage and any special charges incurred in respect of the cargo, and shall contribute with the ship-owner in general average to the payment of any sacrifices, losses or expenses of a general average nature that may be made or incurred for the common benefit or to relieve the adventure from any common peril.

(e) If the property is being carried under a tariff which provides that any carrier party thereto shall be liable for loss from perils of the sea, then as to such carrier or carriers the provisions of this section shall be modified in accordance with the tariff provisions, which shall be regarded as incorporated into the conditions of this bill of lading.

(f) The term "water carriage" in this section shall not be construed as including lighterage in or across rivers, harbors, or lakes, when performed by or on behalf of carriers other than water.

Sec. 10. Any alteration, addition or erasure in this bill of lading which shall be made without the special notation hereon of the agent of the carrier issuing this bill of lading, shall be without effect, and this bill of lading shall be enforceable according to its original tenor.

CONTRACT TERMS AND CONDITIONS

Sec. 1. (a) The carrier or party in possession of any of the property herein described shall be liable as to common law for any loss thereof or damage thereto, except as hereinafter provided. Allied Van Lines, Inc. will be responsible to the same extent as the bill of lading carrier.

(b) No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property herein described shall be liable for any loss thereof or damage thereto or delay caused by the act of God, the public enemy, the acts of public authority, quarantine, riots, strikes, perils of navigation, the act or default of the shipper or owner, the nature of the property or defect or inherent vice therein, occurrences in customs warehouse, or for any loss or damage to paintings, statuary, ornamental metal work, works of art, articles of virtu, photographs or pictures, antiques, dishes, glassware, musical instruments, vases, mirrors, marble or enamel pieces, lamps, lamp shades or other fragile articles, unless such loss or damage was caused by the negligence of the carrier or party in possession, and the responsibility to prove such negligence shall be on the shipper, except where arrangements have been made for the packing and unpacking of such articles by the carrier or its agent. No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property herein described shall be responsible for the mechanical functions of pianos, radios, phonographs, clocks, mechanical refrigerators, or other instruments or appliances, whether or not such articles are packed, unpacked, or packed and unpacked by the shipper or his agent or carrier or its agents. No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property herein described shall be liable for damage to linoleum or clay heating elements of gas or electric heaters. No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property herein described shall be liable for damage to or loss of contents of pieces of furniture, crates bundles, cartons, boxes, barrels or other containers unless such contents are open for carrier's inspection and then only for such articles as are specifically listed by the shipper and receipted for by the carrier or its agents.

(c) No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property herein described shall be liable for delay caused by obstructions, faulty or impassable highway, lack of capacity of any highway, bridge, ferry, or caused by breakdown or mechanical defect of vehicles or equipment.

(d) The carrier's liability shall be that of a warehouseman, only, for loss damage, or delay caused by fire occurring after the arrival of the property at destination or at the port of export (if intended for export) and tender of delivery of the property to the party entitled to receive it or at the address given for delivery has been made. Except in case of negligence of the carrier or party in possession, the carrier or party in possession shall not be liable for loss, damage, or delay occurring while the property is stopped and held or stored in transit upon the request of the shipper, owner, or party entitled to make such request, whether such request was made before or after the carrier comes into possession of the property.

(e) In case of quarantine the property may be discharged at the risk and expense of the owners into quarantine depot or elsewhere, as required by quarantine regulations or authorities, and in such cases, carrier's responsibility shall cease when the property is so discharged, or property may be returned by carrier at owner's expense to shipping point earning charges both ways. Quarantine expense of whatever nature or kind upon or in respect to the property shall be borne by the owners of the property or be a lien thereon. The carrier shall not be liable for loss or damage occasioned by fumigation or disinfection or other acts done or required by quarantine regulations or authorities even though the same may have been done by carrier's officers, agents, or employees, nor for detention, loss or damage of any kind occasioned by quarantine or the enforcement thereof. No carrier shall be liable, except in case of negligence, for any mistake or inaccuracy in any information furnished by the carrier, its agents, or officers, as to quarantine laws or regulations. The shipper shall hold the carriers harmless from any expense they may incur, or damages they may be required to pay, by reason of the introduction of the property covered by this contract into any place against the quarantine laws or regulations in effect at such place.

Sec. 2. (a) No carrier is bound to transport said property by any particular schedule, vehicle, train or vessel or otherwise than with reasonable dispatch. Every carrier shall have the right in case of physical necessity to forward said property by any carrier or route between the point of shipment and the point of destination. In all cases not prohibited by law, where a lower value than actual value has been represented in writing by the shipper or has been agreed upon in writing as the released value of the property as determined by the classification or tariff upon which the rate is based, such lower value less charges shall be the maximum amount to be recovered, whether or not such loss or damage occurs from negligence.

(b) As a condition precedent to recovery, claims must be filed in writing with the receiving or delivering carrier, or carrier issuing this bill of lading, or carrier in possession of the property when the loss, damage, injury or delay occurred, within nine months after delivery of the property (or in case of export traffic, within nine months after delivery at port of export), or, in case of failure to make delivery, then within nine months after a reasonable time, for delivery has elapsed; and suits shall be instituted against any carrier only within two years and one day from the day when notice in writing is given by the carrier to the claimant that the carrier has disallowed the claim or any part or parts thereof specified in the notice. Where claims are not filed or suits are not instituted thereon in accordance with the forgoing provisions, no carrier hereunder shall be liable, and such claims will not be paid.

(c) Any carrier or party liable on account of loss or damage to any of said property shall have the full benefit of any insurance that may have been effected upon or on account of said property so far as this shall not avoid the policies or contracts of insurance; provided that the carrier reimburse the claimant for the premium paid thereon.

Sec. 3. Except where such service is required as the result of carrier's negligence, all property shall be subject to necessary cooperage, packing and repacking at owner's cost.

Sec. 4. (a) Property not received by the party entitled to receive it within the free time (if any) allowed by tariffs lawfully on file (such free time to be computed as therein provided) after notice of the arrival of the property at destination or at the port of export (if intended for export) has been duly sent or given, and after placement of the property for delivery at destination, or at the time tender of delivery of the property to the party entitled to receive it or at the address given for delivery has been made, may be kept in vehicle, warehouse or place of business of the carrier, subject to the tariff charge for storage and to carrier's responsibility as warehouseman, only, or at the option of the carrier, may be removed to and stored in a warehouse at the point of delivery or at other available points, at the cost of the owner, and there held without liability on the part of the carrier, and subject to a lien for all transportation and other lawful charges, including a reasonable charge for storage. In the event the consignee can not be found at the address given for delivery, then in that event, notice of the placing of such goods in warehouse shall be left at the address given for delivery and mailed to any other address given on the bill of lading for notification, showing the warehouse in which such property has been placed, subject to the provisions of this paragraph.

(b) Where nonperishable property which has been transported to destination hereunder is refused by consignee or the party entitled to receive it upon tender of delivery, or said consignee or party entitled to receive it fails to receive it or claim within 15 days after notice of arrival of the property at destination shall have been duly sent or given, the carrier may sell the same at public auction to the highest bidder, at such place as may be designated by the carrier; provided, that the carrier shall have first mailed, sent, or given to the consignor notice that the property has been refused or remains unclaimed, as the case may be, and that it will be subject to sale under the terms of the bill of lading if disposition be not arranged for, and shall have published notice containing a description of the property, the name of the party to whom consigned, and the time and place of sale, once a week for two successive weeks, in a newspaper of general circulation at the place of sale or nearest place where such newspaper is published; provided, that 30 days shall have elapsed before publication of notice of sale after said notice that the property was refused or remains unclaimed was mailed, sent, or given.

(c) Where perishable property which has been transported hereunder to destination is refused by consignee or party entitled to receive it, or said consignee or party entitled to receive it shall fail to receive it promptly, the carrier may, in its discretion, to prevent deterioration or further deterioration, sell the same to the best advantage at private or public sale: provided, that if there be time for service of notification to the consignor or owner of the refusal of the property or the failure to receive it and request for disposition of the property, such notification shall be given, in such manner as the exercise of due diligence requires, before the property is sold.

(d) Where the procedure provided for in the two paragraphs last preceding is not possible, it is agreed that nothing contained in said paragraphs shall be construed to abridge the right of the carrier at its option to sell the property under such circumstances and in such manner as may be authorized by law.

(e) The proceeds of any sale made under this section shall be applied by the carrier to the payment of advances, tariff charges, packing, storage, and any other lawful charges and the expense of notice, advertisement, sale, and other necessary expense and of caring for and maintaining the property, if proper care of the same requires special expense and should there be a balance, it shall be paid to the owner of the property sold hereunder.

(f) Where the carrier is directed to take property from a place or places at which the consignor or his agent is not present the property shall be at the risk of the owner before loading

Where the carrier is directed to unload or deliver property at a place or places at which the consignee or its agent is not present the property shall be at the risk of the owner after unloading or delivery.

Sec. 5. No carrier hereunder will carry or be liable in any way for any documents, specie, or for any articles of extraordinary value not specifically rated in the published classifications or tariffs unless a special agreement to do so and a stipulated value of the articles are endorsed hereon.

Sec. 6. Explosives or dangerous goods will not be accepted for shipment. Every party whether principal or agent shipping such goods shall be liable for and indemnify the carrier against all loss or damage caused by such goods and carrier will not be liable for safe delivery of the shipment.

Sec. 7. The owner or consignee shall pay the advances, tariff charges, packing and storage, if any, and all other lawful charges accruing on said property; but, except in those instances where it may lawfully be authorized to do so, no carrier shall deliver or relinquish possession at destination of the property covered by this bill of lading until all tariff rates and charges thereon have been paid. The consignor shall be liable for the advances, tariff charges packing, storage and all other lawful charges, except that if the consignor stipulates, by signature, in the space provided for that purpose on the face of this bill of lading that the carrier shall not make delivery without requiring payment of such charges and the carrier, contrary to such stipulation, shall make delivery without requiring such payment, the consignor (except as hereinafter provided) shall not be liable for such charges: Provided, that, where the carrier has been instructed by the shipper or consignor to deliver said property to a consignee other than the shipper or consignor, such consignee shall not be legally liable for transportation charges in respect of the transportation of said property (beyond those billed against him at the time of delivery for which he is otherwise liable) which may be found to be due after the property has been delivered to him, if the consignee (a) is an agent only and has no beneficial title to said property and, (b) prior to delivery of said property has notified the delivering carrier in writing of the fact of such agency and absence of beneficial title, and, in the case of a shipment reconsigned or diverted to a point other than that specified in the original bill of lading, has also notified the delivering carrier in writing of the name and address of the beneficial owner of said property; and in such cases the shipper or consignor, or, in the case of a shipment so reconsigned or diverted, the beneficial owner, shall be liable for such additional charges. If the consignee has given to the carrier erroneous information as to who the beneficial owner is, such consignee shall himself be liable for such additional charges. Nothing herein shall limit the right of the carrier to require at time of shipment, the prepayment of the charges. If upon inspection it is ascertained that the articles shipped are not those described in this bill of lading, the advances or tariff charges must be paid upon the articles actually shipped.

Sec. 8. If this bill of lading is issued on the order of the shipper, or his agent, in exchange or in substitution for another bill of lading, the shipper's signature to the prior bill of lading as to the statement of value or otherwise, or election for common law or bill of lading liability, in or in connection with such prior bill of lading, shall be considered a part of this bill of lading as fully as if the same were written or made in or in connection with this bill of lading.

Sec. 9. (a) If all or any part of said property is carried by water over any part of said route, such water carriage shall be performed subject to all the terms and provisions of, and all the exemptions from liability contained in, the Act of Congress of the United States, approved on February 13, 1893, and entitled "An Act relating to the navigation of vessels, etc.," and of other statutes of the United States according carriers by water the protection of limited liability, and to the conditions contained in this bill of lading not inconsistent therewith or with this section.

(b) No such carrier by water shall be liable for any loss or damage resulting from any fire happening to or on board the vessel, or from explosion, bursting of boilers or breakage of shafts, unless caused by the design or neglect of such carrier.

(c) If the owner shall have exercised due diligence in making the vessel in all respects seaworthy and properly manned, equipped, and supplied, no such carrier shall be liable for any loss or damage resulting from the perils of the lakes, seas, or other waters, or from latent defects in hull, machinery, or appurtenances whether existing prior to, at the time of, or after sailing, or from collision, stranding, or other accidents of navigation, or from prolongation of the voyage. And, when for any reason it is necessary, any vessel carrying any or all of the property herein described shall be at liberty to call at any port or ports, in or out of the customary route, to tow and be towed, to transfer, trans-ship, or lighter, to load and discharge goods at any time, to assist vessels in distress, to deviate for the purpose of saving life or property, and for docking and repairs. Except in case of negligence such carrier shall not be responsible for any loss or damage to property if it be necessary or is usual to carry the same upon deck.

(d) General Average shall be payable according to the York-Antwerp Rules of 1924, Sections 1 to 15, inclusive, and Sections 17 to 22, inclusive, and as to matters not covered thereby according to the laws and usages of the Port of New York. If the owners shall have exercised due diligence to make the vessel in all respects seaworthy and properly manned, equipped and supplied, it is hereby agreed that in case of danger, damage or disaster resulting from faults or errors in navigation, or in the management of the vessel, or from any latent or other defects in the vessel, her machinery or appurtenances, or from unseaworthiness, whether existing at the time of shipment or at the beginning of the voyage (provided the latent or other defects or the unseaworthiness was not discoverable by the exercise of due diligence), the shippers, consignees and/or owners of the cargo shall nevertheless pay salvage and any special charges incurred in respect of the cargo, and shall contribute with the ship-owner in general average to the payment of any sacrifices, losses or expenses of a general average nature that may be made or incurred for the common benefit or to relieve the adventure from any common peril.

(e) If the property is being carried under a tariff which provides that any carrier party thereto shall be liable for loss from perils of the sea, then as to such carrier or carriers the provisions of this section shall be modified in accordance with the tariff provisions, which shall be regarded as incorporated into the conditions of this bill of lading.

(f) The term "water carriage" in this section shall not be construed as including lighterage in or across rivers, harbors, or lakes, when performed by or on behalf of carriers other than water.

Sec. 10. Any alteration, addition or erasure in this bill of lading which shall be made without the special notation hereon of the agent of the carrier issuing this bill of lading, shall be without effect, and this bill of lading shall be enforceable according to its original tenor.

Dear Miss Dudley:

We have a van going to Maine today and on the return trip if he doesn't get filled up in Boston or some place en route, we will have him stop for the paintings for Lt. McIlhenny, Mr. Clifford, Mrs. Lloyd, and The Philadelphia Museum of Art.

We will give the driver directions to telephone you before reaching New York whether he will have space for the paintings or not.

Meanwhile, we enclose contracts covering the work, and we would suggest that you sign the same and return to us so that they will be in our hands if the van is able to get the paintings.

Yours truly,

Re: Mondrians to be cleaned

From: M.Allen

Dear Harry:

Mrs. Keck is coming to the Museum tomorrow (Tuesday) to look at the Mondrians and see whether they need cleaning. Will you please have the following oils up on the second floor (section not being used for exhibition) the first thing in the morning where a table will be ready for Mrs. Keck.

~~45.16~~ Ostaar
~~45.17~~ "
~~45.18~~ "
~~45.19~~ "
~~45.20~~ "
~~45.25~~ " (These are the small ones in the package)

~~45.41~~ Holtzman — Varnish removed - 3/22/45

~~45.35~~ Freeman (Liegand)
NOTE: Mrs. Keck should look at this painting first as when it is finished it is to be sent down to Beck for color reproduction. OK

~~45.70~~ Crommelin
NOTE: This is the Mondrian which is to be collected by James on Tuesday from the Netherland Consulate (Memo and pick-up order attached)

The above listed items are most important. The next group can be brought up as Mrs. Keck wishes them:

[45.14 Nierendorf] Taken to Mezz.
44.2653 Arensberg — won't touch - nothing can be done. Taken to Mezz.
~~45.66~~ ~~Spreckles~~
45.64 Holtzman
45.59 "
45.63 "
~~45.62~~ "
45.61 "
45.67 "
~~45.57~~ "
45.60 " (~~I have not recorded this as yet, but will tomorrow~~) checked
~~45.65~~
~~45.75~~

Re: Mrs. Tremaine's Mondrian

From: MA

Per instructions from the Miller Company, Meriden, Conn., we are delivering Mrs. Tremaine's (Spreckles) Mondrian Victory Boogie Woogie to the Miller Company, 315 Fourth Avenue, N.Y. on Thursday. We are sending it in the new frame which they wished to purchase. The cost of the frame is $10.00. Would you like to send a bill to them. I suppose that it should be sent attention Mr. S. R. Naysmith, Vice-President in Charge of Engineering, The Miller Co., Meriden, Conn. since he has written us all the ~~xxxxxx~~ letters in connection with this transaction.

I believe the form is in New York and I will fill it out and mail it to you when I return next Friday.

I expect to leave for California about February 12, to be gone about a month. I would like to see you before I leave in connection with reproducing this painting, as well as one or two other matters. May I call your secretary when I arrive in New York to arrange an appointment?

Believe me, most sincerely yours,

Emily von Romberg Spreckels

Dear Mr Sweeney:

The form in connection with our loan of the Victory Boogie Woogie to the Mondrian Memorial Exhibit, which you mailed me in New York has been misplaced.

Will you please have the painting insured for $15,000 and have the painting listed in the catalog as Loaned by Courtesy of The Miller Company, Meriden, Connecticut.

January 27, 1945

Dear Mrs. Spreckles:

I am enclosing the usual Registrar's form in connection with the loan of the Mondrian Victory Boogie-Woogie which you so kindly promised us for the Memorial exhibition of Mondrian's work. Will you be so good as to give us the insurance valuation at which you wish it insured and also any other details regarding the catalog listing and return shipment.

I am asking our truckers to pick it up from the Valentine Gallery on Tuesday, January 30th. Collect Tues

Thanking you for your generous loan of this to the Museum's Memorial Exhibition,

Very sincerely yours,

James Johnson Sweeney

April 11, 1945

Dear Miss Wiegand:

It was very good of you to pick up the two Mondrians. As you can well understand, only considerations of scale and wall space prevented us from making use of these extremely interesting examples. I wish we could have had twice the wall space which was at our disposal. Permit me to thank you personally and on behalf of the Museum for your kindness.

Very sincerely yours,

Miss Charmion Wiegand
