FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MRS. G. MACCULLOCH MILLER ELECTED TRUSTEE OF MUSEUM OF MODERN ART

Mrs. G. Macculloch Miller, art collector and daughter of the late Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney, has been elected to the Board of Trustees of the Museum of Modern Art, it was announced today by J. H. Whitney, Chairman of the Board of the Museum.

Mrs. Miller was closely associated with her mother, well-known sculptor and art patron, in many activities, including the establishment of the Whitney Museum. During several years' residence abroad she started a collection of her own and has taken a particular interest in contemporary American art. She has continued these many activities since her mother's death in 1942, and is now president of the Whitney Museum. She has been one of its trustees since its foundation.

Mrs. Miller's husband, a leading architect, is a trustee of the Museum of the City of New York.
