The Museum of Modern Art, 11 West 53 Street, announces an Exhibition of Painting and Sculpture from Sixteen American Cities, to open to the public on Wednesday, December 13, and to continue until January 1, 1934. This is the twelfth American show held by the Museum and includes the work of 119 painters and sculptors from all over the country. An unusual feature of it is the large number of women artists represented; their works comprise almost one-quarter of the total number shown in the Exhibition.

As was to be expected, painters throughout the United States show in this Exhibition a growing interest in the native scene. Architecture, farming, cattle raising, religious ceremonies, landscapes, interiors—nearly all are emphatically characteristic not only of America but in many cases of the sections where the pictures were painted. The regions which seem most artistically self-conscious are the Southwest, represented by Dallas and Santa Fe, and the Southeast, represented by Atlanta.

The different sections of the country will be represented in the Exhibition as follows: for the Southeast, Atlanta is sending work by Marjorie Conant Bush-Brown, Julian H. Harris, George Ramey, Robert S. Rogers, Benjamin E. Shute and Douglas Berry Wright.

For the East, Baltimore sends work by Simons Brangier Boas, Donald Vincent Coale, Herman Maril, Edward Rosenfeld, Charles Leon Schucker, Selma L. Oppenheimer, and Harold Holmes Wrenn; Boston, work by Frederick Warren Allen, Oliver Chaffee, Joseph Coletti, Carl Gordon Cutler, Howard Gibbs, Jr., Charles Hopkinson, Molly Luce, Charles Hovey Pepper, Margaret T. Sargent, and Vernon Smith; Buffalo, work by Charles E. Burchfield, Anna Glenny Dunbar, William M. Hekking, Louisa W. Robins, Anthony J. Sisti, and Urquhart Wilcox; Philadelphia,

For the Northwest, Minneapolis sends work by Dewey Albinson, Cameron Booth, Edmund M. Kopietz, Erle Loran, and Glen Mitchell.

The Museum of Modern Art, 11 West 53 Street, announces an Exhibition of Painting and Sculpture from Sixteen American Cities, to open to the public on Wednesday, December 13, and to continue until January 1, 1934. This is the twelfth American show held by the Museum and includes the work of 119 painters and sculptors from all over the country. An unusual feature of it is the large number of women artists represented; their works comprise almost one-quarter of the total number shown in the Exhibition.

As was to be expected, painters throughout the United States show in this Exhibition a growing interest in the native scene. Architecture, farming, cattle raising, religious ceremonies, landscapes, interiors—nearly all are emphatically characteristic not only of America but in many cases of the sections where the pictures were painted. The regions which seem most artistically self-conscious are the Southwest, represented by Dallas and Santa Fe, and the Southeast, represented by Atlanta.

The different sections of the country will be represented in the Exhibition as follows: for the Southeast, Atlanta is sending work by Marjorie Conant Bush-Brown, Julian H. Harris, George Ramey, Robert S. Rogers, Benjamin E. Shute and Douglas Berry Wright.

For the East, Baltimore sends work by Simone Brangier Boas, Donald Vincent Coale, Herman Maril, Edward Rosenfeld, Charles Leon Schucker, Selma L. Oppenheimer, and Harold Holmes Wrenn; Boston, work by Frederick Warren Allen, Oliver Chaffee, Joseph Coletti, Carl Gordon Cutler, Howard Gibbs, Jr., Charles Hopkinson, Molly Luce, Charles Hovey Pepper, Margaret Sargent, and Vernon Smith; Buffalo, work by Charles E. Burchfield, Anna Glenny Dunbar, William M. Hekking, Louisa W. Robins, Anthony J. Sisti, and Urquhart Wilcox; Philadelphia,

Ivan Le Lorraine Albright,

For the Middle West, Chicago sends work by Jean Crawford Adams, Aaron Bohrod, Rifka Angel, Frances Chapin, Gustaf Dalstrom, Frances Foy, Sylvia Shaw Judson, Sam Ostrowsky, Constantino Pougialis, Flora Schofield, William S. Schwartz, John Vance Storrs, and Grant Wood; Cleveland, work by Alexander Blazys, Clarence E. Carter, Elizabeth Bart Gerald, Henry G. Keller, Grace V. Kelly, Louise B. Maloney, Paul B. Travis, William Sommer, William W. McVey, and Frank N. Wilcox; Detroit, work by Reginald Bennett, John Carroll, Samuel Cashwan, Constanze Coleman Richardson, Sarkis Sarkisian, Zoltan Sepeshy, and Edgar Louis Yaeger; Pittsburgh, work by Roy Hilton, John Kane, Alexander J. Kostellow, Samuel Rosenberg, and Everett Warner; and St. Louis, work by Joe Jones, Charles F. Guest, Wallace Horndon Smith, Rudolph Tandler, E. Oscar Thalinger, and Robert M. Cronbach.

For the Southwest, Dallas sends work by Dorothy Austin, Harry Carnahan, Otis Dozier, Edward G. Eisenlohr, Alexandre Hogue, and Olin Travis; Santa Fe work by Ernest L. Blumenschein, Randall Davey, Victor Higgins, Olive Rush, Eugenie F. Shonnard, and Theodore Van Soelen.

For the Northwest, Minneapolis sends work by Dewey Albinson, Cameron Booth, Edmund M. Kopietz, Erle Loren, and Glen Mitchell.