ARCHITECTURE OF ANTONI GAUDI: The buildings of the Spanish architect Antoni Gaudi (1852-1926) have recently attracted the attention of contemporary historians, architects and engineers. Unique in its surrealist and sculptural qualities, but related in style to the curvilinear Art Nouveau of the turn of the century, Gaudi's work in Barcelona alone includes the huge unfinished Cathedral of the Sagrada Familia, two apartment houses, and a public park. These and many other major works, as well as furniture and full-size casts of architectural details, have been selected by Professor Henry-Russell Hitchcock, director of the exhibition. Installation designed by Arthur Drexler and Wilder Green.

The exhibition includes 5 oils and several watercolors, among them his most famous painting I and the Village (1911) and the brilliantly colored designs for the ballet Aleko (1942). The acquisition of two important gifts will also be announced: the series of 100 etchings for the Fables of La Fontaine and the 105 illustrations for the Bible. The etchings for the Old Testament, published last year in Paris, will be exhibited in America for the first time.
