- Throughout the winter.      STRUCTURES BY RICHARD BUCKMINSTER FULLER. Revolutionary principles of building are demonstrated in three unusual structures designed by Buckminster Fuller: a space frame "Octet Truss" of aluminum anodized gold, a green plastic dome, and a black and white aluminum and monel mast. The purpose of the exhibition is to illustrate the extraordinary strength and lightness of Mr. Fuller's method of construction which utilizes the forces of tension and compression in an unconventional way and which may in time change the appearance and character of our buildings. Of the three structures in the show only the dome is an actual building with a specific use. These are the first examples of Mr. Fuller's work to be erected in New York. The mast is being built by Shoji Sadao and Edison Price, Inc. The space frame "Octet Truss" has been contributed by Aluminium Limited. The radome has been lent by Lincoln Laboratories. The exhibition is under the direction of Arthur Drexler, Director of the Museum's Department of Architecture and Design. Opened Sept. 22.
