Red Norvo and his Quintet will play at the second Jazz concert in the Garden of the Museum of Modern Art on Thursday evening, June 23 at 8:30 p.m.

Co-sponsored by Metronome Magazine, the series of promenade concerts opened last week with an attendance of about 1,300 people. A few improvements will be added for the Norvo evening, notably more chairs and a pillow concession for people who want to sit during the hour-long outdoor concert in the Sculpture Garden.

Norvo at the vibraharp will be accompanied by John Markham, drums, John Mosher, bass, Jimmy Wyble, guitar and Gerry Dodgion, saxophone and flute.

In case of rain, the concert will be cancelled. There is no additional fee over the usual Museum admission charge of 95 cents. Supper and light refreshments are served in the Museum Penthouse, usually reserved for Museum members but open to the general public for these special summer Thursday evenings.

The Lambert, Hendricks and Ross Trio will be the featured performers at the third concert on June 30. The series, with different artists presented each week, will continue through August 18.
