Registration for Fall art classes at The Art Center of The Museum of Modern Art, 4 West 53rd Street, is now underway. Open to children from 3 to 12, young people from 12 to 18, and adult amateurs, The Art Center offers a 15-week session beginning on September 20. Classes meet once a week and are limited in size.

In addition to painting classes for beginners and advanced students, orientation classes, experimental classes in printmaking, sculpture, drawing and painting, The Art Center also offers: Jewelry Making, a study of a variety of techniques of constructing jewelry by hand (Wednesdays, 7 - 10 p.m.; fee: $65, plus basic materials); and Pottery, a course covering the basic methods of clay forming, decorating and glazing (Thursdays, 7 - 10 p.m.; fee: $65, plus basic materials).

A new class for adults introduced into this Fall's program is Photography -- Criticism and Discussion, a course for beginners and advanced students of photography. The classes are scheduled three weeks apart (5 sessions in all) to allow students to do work in-between which can be presented for discussion and criticism at the meetings. Guest professional photographers will attend a few of the sessions to discuss their own as well as the students' work (Mondays, 7:30 - 9:30 p.m.; fee: $25, includes tuition only).

Younger children are organized in classes by age beginning with three-year-olds. 74 classes in all are offered for children and young people.

The Art Center will also offer a special series of five talks on Some Aspects of Looking at Modern Art by Abraham L. Chanin, author of "Art Guide New York" and docent of The Museum of Modern Art. The course will meet on Friday evenings from 8 - 9:30 p.m. Mr. Chanin will also give a course called Old Masters to Modern in which students visit galleries and museums throughout the city. This 1 1/2 hour class is offered on Wednesdays at 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.
