FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SPECIAL TO THE FORT WAYNE (IND.) JOURNAL-GAZETTE and NEWS-SENTINEL:

Models and drawings of the proposed Fort Wayne Arts Center are included in the comprehensive review of THE ARCHITECTURE OF LOUIS I. KAHN on view at The Museum of Modern Art in New York City from April 26 through May 30. Yale University Professor, Vincent Scully, has written of the project, "It has seemed to be all pure geometry, but the shapes have reflected Kahn's changing views of the functional requirements of each and of the relative significance of the various institutions -- theaters, museums and schools -- which each is intended to house within the large institutional complex. As the character of the Cultural Center is studied, so the entire center of Fort Wayne comes under review in relation to it."

The exhibition, directed by Arthur Drexler, Director of the Museum's Department of Architecture and Design, and selected and installed by Ludwig Glaeser, Associate Curator of Architecture, in collaboration with Mr. Drexler, ~~will convey~~ the achievements which have brought the 65 year-old American architect international acclaim.

Mr. Drexler has written, "Kahn's effort to make form coincide with real and symbolic functions has profoundly impressed students and influenced his peers -- more perhaps than any other architectural philosophy since Mies' work in the forties."
