SPECIAL TO ROCHESTER (N.Y.) DEMOCRAT AND CHRONICLE and TIMES-UNION:

Photographs, drawings and plans of Rochester's First Unitarian Church are featured in the comprehensive review of THE ARCHITECTURE OF LOUIS I. KAHN on view at The Museum of Modern Art in New York City from April 26 through May 30.

Yale University Professor, Vincent Scully, says of the building, "In the Unitarian Church, structure and light came together for Kahn to make the first great interior space he was able to construct. ... It might be argued that the Unitarian Church was Kahn's first wholly integrated building, in which he was able for the first time to meet all his own fresh and exacting standards."

The exhibition, directed by Arthur Drexler, Director of the Museum's Department of Architecture and Design, and selected and installed by Ludwig Glaeser, Associate Curator of Architecture, in collaboration with Mr. Drexler, surveys the achievements which have brought the 65-year-old American architect international acclaim.

Mr. Drexler has written, "Kahn's effort to make architectural form coincide with real and symbolic functions has profoundly impressed students and influenced his peers -- more perhaps than any other architectural philosophy since Mies' work in the forties."

Louis I. Kahn -- surely America's most inventive architect -- has grown step by step in them all."
