THE MUNICIPAL ART SOCIETY and THE MUSEUM OF MODERN ART

invite you to a special evening program

MODEL CITIES: THE WORK IN PROGRESS

Monday, May 13, 1968, at 8 P.M. in the Museum Auditorium, 11 West 53 Street

The participants will include:

- Eugenia Flatow, Executive Secretary of the Model Cities Policy Committee
- Norval White, Architect, Gruzen & Partners
- Horace Morancie, Neighborhood Director in charge of organizing the communities of Central Brooklyn into planning consultants
- M. Paul Friedburg, Landscape architect in charge of planning housing project amphitheatres and Early Action recreation facilities
- Steven Roberts, The New York Times, will open the discussion period
- Jack Robertson, Head of the Urban Design Group of the City Planning Commission, will moderate the panel
- Arthur Drexler, Director of the Department of Architecture and Design, The Museum of Modern Art, will introduce the speakers

A thorough examination of the organization, progress and aspirations of Model Cities will be made by the panel. Slides of proposed housing and recreation concepts will be shown, and a discussion period open to the floor will follow.

All members of The Museum of Modern Art are invited free of charge; tickets for non-members are $1.50 each. The seating is limited. Reservations must be received by the Museum before May 6 and should be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope, as tickets are required for admission. Checks are to be made payable to The Museum of Modern Art.

The Museum is extending its current exhibition "Manhattan Observed" in honor of the occasion. The exhibition of 46 prints, which is installed in the galleries adjacent to the Auditorium, offers a series of impressions and romantic interpretations of the city during the past six decades. Intimate views of city life are contrasted with portrayals of its dynamic, syncopated pace and monolithic architectural mass.
