SEPTEMBER OPENING

Sept. 25- ARCHITECTURE OF MUSEUMS. During the last decade the world-wide proliferation Nov. 11_ of museums has resulted in much important architecture. It is not so surprising considering that almost every leading architect including Wright and Le Corbusier has been tempted into offering his own solutions to the problems of museum design. This exhibition will present several of the outstanding museums, such as Mies van der Rohe's New National Gallery for Berlin and Kevin Roche's Oakland Museum Center in California, in their architectural entirety. Examples of specific aspects of museum design and installation techniques will be illustrated by museums from all over the world, both newly constructed and recently renovated buildings. Models, photographic enlargements, and slide projections will illustrate the selected examples, with a brief historical introduction prefacing the entire show. Directed by Ludwig Glaeser, Curator, Department of Architecture & Design. 1st floor, gallery 2.

Feb. 3 construction made up of large plexiglas panels on which varying images of chairs have been silk-screened. Between the panels are lights which are activated by a sound system which in turn is "triggered" by the public noise level. The work creates a constantly changing combination of overlapping images and has been exhibited in Amsterdam and Paris with great public interest. Selected by Feb. 9 than 125 paintings, sculptures, drawings, prints, and objects selected by K.G. Pontus Hultén, Director of the Moderna Museet in Stockholm. In their production artists of this century have often commented on the machine: the exhibition includes work by the Futurists, Dadaists, Constructivists, Surrealists, artists of the Bauhaus, and recent works shown for the first time selected by Mr. Hultén from a world-wide competition co-sponsored this year by Experiments in Art and Technology (EAT). The attitudes represented range from the optimistic view that man's mastery of technology will enable him to attain a utopian society, to the pessimistic view that machines may dominate and enslave mankind. Accompanied by an illustrated book which offers examples of the ample historical precedents for the ideas of 20th-century artists, as well as extensive comments by Mr. Hultén on more than 100 works, a checklist of the Museum's exhibition, and a bibliography. 1st floor, galleries 2,3,4.

Selected by John Szarkowski, Director, Department of Photography. 1st floor, gallery 2. (Opened June 25)
- Through Sept. RECENT CZECH AND POLISH POSTERS. Fourteen posters by eight artists, devoted to publicizing events: the theatre, films, and exhibitions. Selected, from a much larger group of Polish and Czech posters recently added to the collection, by Arthur Drexler, Director, Department of Architecture & Design. - Through Oct. 1 FIVE MAJOR LOANS: PAINTINGS LENT BY MRS. BERTRAM SMITH AND MR. NORTON SIMON. The exhibition consists of Wassily Kandinsky's Picture With An Archer (c.1909) and Pablo Picasso's Woman Dressing Her Hair (1940) lent by Mrs. Bertram Smith; and Juan Gris' Still Life With Poem (1915), Franz Marc's Bathing Girls (c.1910), and Georges Rouault's Le Chinois (1937) lent by Norton Simon. Selected by Bates Lowry, Director, The Museum of Modern Art. 1st floor, gallery 1. (Opened Aug. 30)
- Through Oct. 13 JOHN D. GRAHAM: Paintings and Drawings. This exhibition presents a selection from the later works of the Russian-born artist, John D. Graham, who had a vital influence in shaping New York's art world of the thirties and forties but whose work is not well known to the general public. Working abstractly through the thirties, Graham adopted in the early forties a figurative style based on Renaissance painting. The works include unique and evocative portraits of women, immobile and calm, who betray a mysterious inner disturbance. Oil drawings on tracing paper create almost hieratic images reflecting Graham's increasing absorption in astrology, numerology and other occult and mystical systems. Selected by Eila Kokkinen, Assistant Curator for Drawings, Department of Drawings & Prints. 1st floor, galleries 5 & 6. (Opened Aug. 15)
