Registration for Fall art classes at The Art Center of The Museum of Modern Art, 4 West 54th Street, is still underway. Open to children from 2½ to 12, young people from 12 to 18, and adult amateurs, The Art Center offers a 15-week session. Classes meet once a week and are limited in size.

Painting classes for beginners and advanced students, orientation classes, and experimental classes in painting, printmaking, drawing, and sculpture are among the courses offered for adults. A special Workshop for Group Leaders interested in developing creative programs for children is being taught by Jane Cooper Bland on Tuesdays (10 A.M. - Noon; fee: $65, plus $5 for materials). The course is intended for leaders of art programs of such organizations as Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, boys clubs, community volunteers, settlement houses, etc., and as a refresher course for teachers. Understanding Modern Art, a course designed to introduce the student to the vast wealth of art treasures in New York City through guided visits to galleries and museums, will be given by Ruth Bowman, Curator of the New York University Art Collection (Wednesdays, 10 - 11:15 A.M. and 12:30 - 1:45 P.M.; fee $75).

Children and young people are organized in classes by age beginning with three year-olds. The program includes classes of Ceramic Sculpture (9 - 12 years; Fridays, 4 - 5:30 P.M.) and sculpture classes for ages 8 to 18. Special classes for parents and children to work together exploring creative media are being continued, as well as the experimental course for parents and younger children of 2½ to 3 years of age.

Located at 4 West 54th Street, The Art Center is equipped with studios, sculpture, ceramic and metal workshops, a research center, and an exhibition hall where work from the Museum's classes and from other schools in the United States and abroad is shown.

The Art Center, directed by Victor D'Amico, is a non-profit institution established to extend the activities of The Museum of Modern Art's Education Department, and to develop new methods for creative art education in the United States and abroad.
