No. 106
Friday, October 18, 1968
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Delegates from ⁵⁶~~80~~ colleges and universities from various parts of New York State will meet at The Museum of Modern Art on October 21 and 22 in a series of informal meetings with the Museum curators. The purpose of the Conference, founded by the New York State Council on the Arts, is to give professors, gallery directors, and others concerned with the arts in private and public institutions of higher learning, an opportunity to explore the resources of the Museum. At the same time, the Museum curators will be able to investigate some of the needs of the academic community that might be met by Museum programs.

On Wednesday, October 23, delegates from the State University of New York, will remain for an additional day of seminar exploring ways in which the Museum and the State University of New York might work more closely together in the future.

Bates Lowry, Director of The Museum of Modern Art, and Anne Coffin Hanson, Director of the Museum's Lillie P. Bliss International Study Center, will open the Conference in the Museum Auditorium at 10:00 a.m. Monday (press welcome).

During the afternoon the delegates will tour a current exhibition, The Architecture of Museums and the International Study Center (press welcome). From 6:15 to 8:00 p.m. they will attend a preview for invited guests of Soundings, a construction by Robert Rauschenberg, which opens to the public the following day (press welcome).

On Tuesday, October 22 at the morning session at 10:00 a.m., seven members of the Museum staff will speak on various aspects of the Museum program and activities; Wilder Green, Director of Exhibitions Program; Arthur Drexler, Director of Architecture and Design; Elaine Johnson, Associate Curator, Department of Drawings and Prints; Margareta Akermark, Associate Director, Department of Film; Bernard Karpel, Librarian; John Szarkowski, Director of Department of Photography; and William Rubin, Curator of Painting and Sculpture.

The afternoon will be devoted to small discussion groups led by the morning speakers, and Dorothy Dudley, Registrar.
