

MUSEUM OF MODERN ART

730 Fifth Avenue at 57th Street,
New York City

An exhibition of contemporary American painters and sculptors will follow the Corot-Daumier Exhibition at the Museum. The opening to members will be on December 3rd and to the public on December 4th. The exhibition will remain until January 20th.

The exhibition will include the work of thirty painters and seven sculptors none of whom have been shown in previous exhibitions at the Museum, neither in the Nineteen Living Americans of last December nor in the exhibition of Forty-Six Artists under 35 of last April. While the present exhibition is in a sense supplementary to these previous exhibitions it is believed that it may even surpass them in variety and interest. The importance of American sculpture is especially emphasized.

Most of the artists were selected by a committee made up of five of the Trustees and the two directors: Mr. A. Conger Goodyear, President of the Museum, Miss. L.P. Bliss, vice president, Mr. Samuel A. Lewisohn, Secretary, and Mr. Stephen C. Clark, Mr. Alfred H. Barr, Jr., Director, and Mr. Jere Abbott, Associate Director. Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr. could not serve on the committee since she has not yet returned from Europe.

The majority of the artists are familiar to the New York public but a few it is believed are practically unknown and should arouse surprise and controversy.

The painters to be shown are:
