Vincent Scully to Speak at Modern

"What Was Modern Architecture?", the first in a series of Anthony G. Adinolfi Memorial Lectures arranged by Arthur Drexler, Director of the Department of Architecture and Design at The Museum of Modern Art, will be given by Vincent Scully at the Museum on Wednesday, October 26 at 8:00 p.m.

Scully, one of the country's most influential architectural historians, is Trumbull Professor of the History of Art at Yale University. His numerous books and articles include "Modern Architecture: The Architecture of Democracy"; "The Earth, the Temple and the Gods", a study of the sacred architecture of ancient Greece; and the recently published "Pueblo: Mountain Village Dance."

Friends and associates of the late Dr. Adinolfi established the lecture series to commemorate the former director of the New York University Construction Fund. The Adinolfi Lecture Fund, under the direction of George A. Dudley, FAIA, is administered by the American Institute of Architects Foundation.

Lecture tickets at $3.00 (MoMA members $2.00, students with I.D. $1.00) are available at the Museum's Lobby Information Desk.
