WHAT SUMMERGARDEN 1991 features free evenings in the Sculpture Garden with concerts performed by artists and recent graduates of The Juilliard School. The 1991 concert series is devoted to the music of Erik Satie in celebration of the 125th anniversary of his birth.

SUMMERGARDEN has been a tradition since 1971. New Yorkers and visitors are invited to stroll among modern masterpieces by such artists as Henri Matisse, Henry Moore, Claes Oldenburg, Pablo Picasso, Auguste Rodin, and William Tucker; sit under the groves of birch, linden, and beech trees; or relax beside the Garden's two ornamental pools.

The 1991 program marks the fifth year The Museum of Modern Art has collaborated with The Juilliard School on the SUMMERGARDEN programs.
