ONLINE PROJECT BY THE MUSEUM OF MODERN ART EXPLORES THE WORK OF ANNETTE MESSEAGER

A Website devoted to the work of French artist Annette Messager, a pilot project of The Museum of Modern Art, debuts on the Internet on October 12, 1995. The project accompanies ANNETTE MESSEAGER, an exhibition of provocative constructions using photography, painting, found objects, and other mediums, on view through January 16, 1996. The Website can be accessed at <http://www.sva.edu/moma/messenger>.

The online visitor can explore Messager's work represented in the exhibition through text and graphics, survey issues informing the artist's work, and access excerpts from the catalogue and the complete checklist. Hypertext links connect to external sites on related topics. Visitor responses to the project may be relayed directly to the Museum via e-mail (comments@moma.org).

The ANNETTE MESSEAGER online project was written by Sheryl Conkelton, Associate Curator, Department of Photography, and organizer of the New York exhibition; and designed by Blink Online Publishing on the server provided by the M.F.A. Computer Arts Department, School of Visual Arts, New York.
