FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SUMMER ART CLASSES FOR CHILDREN OFFERED

BY MUSEUM OF MODERN ART

The Museum of Modern Art announces that beginning July 9 and continuing through August 3, art classes will be held for children of friends and members of the Museum. The classes, which will be divided into three age-level groups for children 3 to 6, 7 to 10, and 11 to 15 years old, will have as their objective the development of creative abilities and the awakening of an awareness to the arts of our time.

All classes will be supervised by Victor D'Amico, Director of the Museum of Modern Art Educational Program for Schools. They will be conducted by teachers who are experts in the special age levels of the classes. Each child will receive the individual attention of the teacher and will be taught by the method best suited to his personal needs and growth, thus enabling him to progress at his own rate of speed and interest. No class exercises or formal techniques will be used because it is believed that they are contrary to the natural and individual process of growth. Children will work in a variety of media--paint, chalk, pastel and clay.

Classes, which will be limited in number from 12 to 20 children, will be held in the Museum of Modern Art Classroom Annex located on the second floor of 681 Fifth Avenue (between 53 and 54 Streets). All inquiries regarding reservations, tuition and hours of classes should be addressed to:
